Banks Act Against Fraud

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Con artists beware! Two Lincoln banks have recently added equipment designed to eliminate fraud losses and give instantaneous control of records.

For the past six weeks, National Bank of Commerce (NBC), has been using the on-line computer system, which enables all 29 of the bank's tellers to communicate directly with the computer.

Bank tellers can instantly update customer information files stored in the bank's central computer.

Teller Terminal
The main component of the system is a teller terminal, called the TU 500, similar in appearance to the computerized cash registers in use in several Lincoln department stores. The TU 500 allows the teller to enter transaction data directly to and receive customer information directly from the central computer.

"We have the capability of getting savings or checking account balances up to the moment, including deposits just made or checks just cashed," said Dennis Stelzer, NBC assistant vice president of administration and operations.

Before the new system was installed, a con artist could have withdrawn $400 at each of NBC's three banking facilities from a $500 checking account. If he was careful and withdrew the money within a fairly short time period, he could have conceivably gotten away with it.

Potential Loss

The three transactions would not have registered with the computer until the next morning and the bank would be out $700.

However, with the new system, only one transaction will clear. After the first withdrawal, his account balance would immediately be reduced to $100 and the second teller would know at a glance his check was no good.

Performing a transaction is relatively simple and takes only a few seconds, Stelzer said.

To cash a check drawn on NBC, the teller enters the customer's account number, indexes the dollar amount of the check and engages the "cash check" key. In a matter of two seconds, she knows if a check is good or bad, he said.

Stelzer was reluctant to say the TU 500 system is 100% foolproof, however.

"If you say it was guaranteed, somebody would come in and try to beat you," he said. "If somebody really wants to cheat you, he can get the job done... probably."

"Before, we were pretty open to get taken," he admitted. "This machine is definitely much safer. But 100%? Only time will tell."

Another feature of the device is that tellers can tell at any time how much cash they should have in their drawers, kind of like a sophisticated adding machine, Stelzer said.

Issued In Seconds

In addition, "stop payment" and "account hold" orders can be issued within seconds to instantly protect bank customers.

Recently a stop-payment request was phoned in to the bank just nine minutes after the check had been cashed, Stelzer recalled. The computer keeps track of transaction times to the minute and second, he said.

If the check writer had called just 10 minutes earlier, that check would never have been cashed.

The bank accepts stop payment orders over the telephone, but they have to be followed up by written requests, Stelzer said.

One Of Four Banks

He pointed out that NBC is one of only four banks in the nation using the Burroughs TU 500 system, although other companies market similar systems.

"It's definitely a coming thing," he said.

OK Staff Cut Bill ... White House Aides Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a bill Tuesday to cut the number of top paid positions on the White House staff, which one Democrat said has grown and "gone out of whack."

Currently, 14 men on President Nixon's staff earn top salaries of $42,500 a year. The House voted to cut that number to five, and then adopted a provision to accomplish the change by attrition.

The House also adopted proposals requiring that the Presidents travel and entertainment allowances be submitted for audit to the General Accounting Office, the auditing arm of Congress.

Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R-Ill., GOP whip in the House, and other Republicans said the bill was Democratic retribution against Nixon. "I know partisan politics when I see it," Arends said.

"The White House staff has gone out of whack," said Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., outlining a 25 percent growth in advisers and consultants in the past three years of the Nixon administration.

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., said the staff tends to make the real decisions in government and "it is to large that it tends to damage the Cabinet system of government."

Since the staff is not confirmed by the Senate, and only department officials appear before Congress, Pickle said, "no longer do the real decision-makers have to respond to Congress... We have an untouchable government."

Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., said before the debate that the bill offered a chance "for justified demagoguery" on the part of congressmen who, for instance, had projects derailed in the past by the John Ehrlichmans and H. R. Haldemans. Both are former White House aides.

Udall said Ehrlichman was arrogant when the congressman sought to determine White House staff numbers and duties two years ago.

Derwinski said, "there still are some arrogant characters there, but that does not disguise the obvious political impact of this bill."

There are 510 White House of five positions with 65 executive grades, which means the salaries are above normal Civil Service levels. The President has discretion to juggle the salaries, and Nixon has picked 14 men to form the top level.

The bill would not trim the number of positions and would permit continuance of the 65 grades, with the bottom salary $36,000 a year.

An amendment by Derwinski to keep the 14 top paid positions lost 237 to 181.

Rep. Charles W. Whelan Jr., R-Ohio, offered the amendment to reduce the top-paid level from 14 to five by attrition, so that Nixon would not have to shift nine of his advisers to lower-paying levels. It was adopted on a floor division vote of 53 to 5.

Final passage of the bill was on a voice vote. The measure authorizes appropriations of $11.2 million for most of the White House operations.

In a related development, legal consultant Arthur Miller, in a report for the Senate Watergate Committee, urged that power acquired by presidential advisers be restricted.

Teen-Ager Makes Exotic Dancers' G-Strings, Pasties

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Stephanie Segars' after-school job has found a lucrative market. She makes G-strings and pasties for "exotic dancers."

The enterprising teen-ager, a straight 'A' student, says she's earned $1,000 in less than a year sewing "Sassies by Steph."

Designing custom-made cover-ups is a ready market and business is booming, says the pretty high school freshman.

She can earn $100 a week in her spare time — providing her grades don't fall. If they start to slip, her mother, Mrs. William Segars, says that'll be the end of the money-making hobby.

"A friend was telling us how hard it was for the girls to get good costumes," Stephanie says. "It's different and it gives me something to do."

She sells her products through a friend who goes around to bars in Tampa taking orders.

Stephanie says big companies charge $8 to $12 for pasties. She throws them in for free with a G-string order. While their G-strings cost $30-$50, hers run $5-$35, depending on design and material.

Material for a full outfit — top and bottom — costs her as little as 25 cents. "Out of three-eighths of a yard of material I can get four G-strings," she says.

It appears the schoolgirl has always had a knack for capitalizing on a profitable venture. A few years ago when she wanted to show her horse, Supreme Court, in Kentucky, she raised the entry fee by catching, cooking and selling crabs.

After she graduates from Plant High School, Stephanie plans to study marine biology, fashion or theater in college.

'SASSIES BY STEPH'... booming business.

School Budget Up $4.3 Million

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday night authorized publication July 8 of the proposed 1974-75 district budget, now tentatively set at $31,451,206, an increase of $4.3 million over this year's estimate.

The board will hold a public budget hearing July 18.

Exact budget proposals were not yet available, pending variables to be determined, such as salaries remaining to be negotiated for certain school employee groups.

The board approved Supt. John Prash's recommendation to publish the proposed budget with a tax-asking figure that will produce a total levy of 48.777, identical to this year's. That levy includes .2 of a mill for Educational Service Unit (ESU) 18.

Board members also okayed Prash's recommendation that the final adopted budget exceed the statutory limit in an amount yet to be set for "elbow room."

Pointing out that the district cannot spend more than it budgets, the extra contingency fund would allow it to meet needs not anticipated now, Prash said.

If the budget presented Tuesday night were adopted, Prash said, the district would use approximately $1.6 million of the 1973-74 balance of about $6.8 million. That would keep the current levy rate unchanged, he said.

The general fund levy, excluding bond interest, sinking and retirement funds and current building levies, is 40.7. Converting the cash balance to mills could theoretically reduce Lincoln's school tax burden by a third.

"I agree that it (the cash balance) is larger than it ought to be," Prash said, citing the gradual increase over the last few years to a change in cash flow.

Explained Associate Superintendent for Business Affairs Robert Den Hartog: State aid to the Lincoln School District as of March 1, 1973, was $2.4 million; a year later, it was $3.9 million "without us doing anything."

Payments for special education programs are now made quarterly, resulting in an increased balance; they were made after-the-fact previously, Den Hartog said.

Whereas the cash balance can be as high as 50% of the operating budget, Den Hartog said it has averaged 15%, or a little more than one month's operating expenses.

One factor that will affect the new budget, he said, is LB772, the state aid to schools bill approved by the 1974 Legislature and currently the subject of a referendum drive to place it on the November ballot.

The board agreed that if insufficient signatures are obtained to force a referendum vote on LB772, the members would re-examine the use of the $6.8 million balance "with the intention of making some downward adjustment in the levy rate."

If the voters reject LB772, Prash said, "We'll be faced with a higher level of budgeting," forcing reliance for more money on the property tax. Under the bill's provisions, the school tax burden would shift to the sales and income taxes.

Prash also noted that the proposed budget, after recomputation of a previous draft, does not exceed the statutory spending limit, as believed earlier.

The proposed budget is based on assessed valuation in the district of $465 million. Estimated receipts for the ESU in 1974-75 are $219,900, including a beginning balance of $53,400. Total proposed expenditures are $164,663, which would leave an ending balance of $55,237.

Den Hartog noted the food services budget includes an increase in the price of a meal by 5 cents, to 45 cents for elementary and 55 cents for junior and senior high students.

Ruling On Highway Funds Set

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Federal District Judge Warren Urbom Tuesday said he would rule next Monday on whether he should stop the Federal Highway Administration from cutting off $39 million in fiscal 1975 highway funds for Nebraska.

Urbom at a hearing on the state's request for a restraining order Tuesday granted the State Department of Justice until Friday to submit a supplemental brief outlining why Nebraska should receive the funds despite Gov. J. James Exon's refusal to take down 42 tourist attraction signs along Interstate 80.

Following three hours of testimony and debate, Urbom told Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Gary Welch that he was willing to rule on the state's request for a restraining order. Welch requested the extension to allow time to answer points raised by the attorneys for Federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann.

Won't Hurt Now

The cut-off in funds, ordered by Tiemann after Gov. J. James Exon refused to remove the signs by the June 1 deadline, will not hamper the state's highway construction program until the Aug. 22 bid-letting involving 18 projects totaling $24 million, according to the state.

The state asked for the restraining order to prevent any loss in federal funds before the merits of the dispute are ultimately decided. July 5 is the date the state plans to submit those projects to the Federal Highway Administration for approval.

Welch told Urbom that the restraining order should be granted because the cut-off will allow dangerous road conditions to worsen and will cost taxpayers more when the projects eventually are constructed.

People Shouldn't Suffer
"The people should not suffer because of a dispute between two agencies," he said.

When inflation is considered, which one official testified has increased costs by 50% in the last six months, Welch said it is clear that the highway improvements should be completed before costs jump any higher.

"The people who pay taxes are expecting us to build as much as possible with that tax dollar," he said.

Steve Muehlberg, an asst. U.S. attorney, told the court, however, that if any irreparable harm is being done to the people it is being done by the state itself.

"The state knew (the tourist sign program) was a temporary experiment solely for the 1972 tourist season," Muehlberg said. "Yet the signs were left up thru 1973 and into 1974."

All the state has to do to prevent any harm to the people as a result of the funds cut-off is to take the signs down, he noted. And at one point it agreed the signs would come down, both Muehlberg and Welch said.

The court, Muehlberg suggested, must consider where the public interest lies — in support of the laws enacted by Congress, Nebraska, he said, is trying to undercut the whole "statutory and regulatory scheme" used to insure uniformity.

The temporary restraining order could only be entered if the state demonstrated "the probable and ultimate success" of the case, he said. The state, he noted, objected at every attempt by the federal government's attorneys to argue the merits of the case.

Trade Deficit Nation's Second Worst

Washington (UPI) — Continued high oil prices and a decline in farm exports helped drop the U.S. balance of trade in May to its second biggest monthly deficit in history, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

The export-import balance sheet was in deficit by a huge $777 million, seasonally adjusted, as overseas shipments of American-made products slumped for the first month since September, 1972.

The dramatic plunge in May also wiped out a $778 million surplus built up during the first four months of the year, leaving the trade balance a mere $1 million in the black for the January-May period. Barring an unlikely improvement later this year, the trade balance is expected to wind up substantially in the red for 1974, wiping out 1973's $1.7 billion surplus.

The price of imported oil has been the chief factor behind the deterioration in the U.S. trade picture, although other countries more dependent on foreign petroleum supplies have been hit much harder. Italy, for example, ran a $1 billion trade deficit for January-May and government officials are predicting a $10 billion deficit for the full year.

In the United States, the cost of importing oil from the Arab states and other producing nations in the first five months of 1974 was $6 billion more than in the same period in 1973, even though the quantity declined.

May's trade deficit was the fattest since an $815 million slump in October, 1971, when exports and imports were bottled up by an East and Gulf Coast longshoremen's strike.

Maggee's Fashion Sales
Selected groups of women's Spring/Summer sportswear now reduced one-fourth and one-third. Sizes 6 to 20. Maggee's Downtown and Gateway. — Adv.

Exports of farm products, a traditional strength of U.S. foreign trade, fell $216 million in May, with wheat, soybeans and livestock all down. One Commerce Department analyst attributed this to more abundant harvests overseas, which have depressed world agricultural prices and rescued foreign demand for American crops and livestock.

Total exports, at $7.6 billion, were off a large 7.3% from April. Imports, however, at $8.4 billion, rose 3.3% in May on the strength of gains in copper, sugar, clothing and consumer goods. Imports of American-model cars and buses manufactured in Canadian plants were also up for the month, the department said.

Regulations Proposed

Whitfield, N.H. (UPI) — The speaker of the American Dental Association (ADA) House of Delegates told New Hampshire dentists night school vending machines should be regulated to help fight diabetes and tooth decay.

Supreme Court: Papers Needn't Offer Space For Reply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newspapers cannot be required to give free space to political candidates to reply to editorial attacks, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously Tuesday.

In one of five decisions affecting freedom of speech and the press, the court struck down a 61-year-old Florida law challenged by the Miami Herald and other newspapers.

Only one other state, Mississippi, has such a law, but the Justice Department was considering proposing federal legislation if the Florida law was upheld.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, speaking for the court, said the right-to-reply law "exact[s] a penalty on the basis of the content of a newspaper." He said the penalty included additional printing costs and "taking up space that could be devoted to other material the newspaper may have preferred to print."

"The choice of material to go into a newspaper and the decisions made as to limitations on the size of the paper, and content and the treatment of public issues and public officials — whether fair or unfair — constitute the exercise of editorial control and judgment," Burger wrote. "It has yet to be demonstrated how governmental regulation of this crucial process can be exercised consistently with the First Amendment guarantees of a free press."

In the other cases, the court: — Ruled 5 to 4 that private individuals may collect damages for injuries they actually suffer because of a libel if they are able to prove negligence. This could make it easier for an individual to win a libel judgment. The court also ruled that private individuals may not collect punitive damages for libel unless they can prove reckless disregard for the truth.

— Held 6 to 3 that a union's use of the word "scab" in a newsletter was covered by federal law guaranteeing unions free speech protection for their organizing efforts. The word is sometimes used for non-union workers.

— Struck down by a 6 to 3 vote the conviction of a Seattle man who hung an American flag out of his apartment window with a peace symbol attached to it. The court said a state law against affixing symbols or pictures to U.S. flags abridged his constitutional right to free expression.

— Ruled 5 to 4 that it is not a violation of constitutional freedom of speech rights for a city transit system to refuse to accept political advertisements for display on buses.

Town Will Continue 4-Day School Week

Cimarron, N.M. (UPI) — Because of the energy crunch last winter, the 450 school kids around town got an extra day off a week.

And because the students and their parents liked the four-day school week so much, and because it saved a lot of money, the school district will continue it this fall.

"Family ties also were strengthened by shortening the school week," said Leonard J. Delayo, state school superintendent. "It gave the families more of an opportunity to be together."

When the energy crisis pushed propane gas prices over 40 cents a gallon, officials in the northeastern New Mexico community opened schools Tuesday through Friday but lengthened the day's class work by an hour.

It saved heating fuel, gasoline buses, electricity and food costs.

"We had anticipated our propane costs to run about $22,000 last year. It ended up costing $10,721. And our electrical bill was cut by about $100 per month," said local School Superintendent Joe Pompeo Jr.

"And we ended up pretty well by having to serve only four meals per week. State law requires that the students go to school 180 days a year, but the definition of a teaching day relates only to a time requirement. There is no reference about whether it must be met in five days instead of three or four."

Pompeo said he hopes to determine in the coming school year if students who attend the longer days four times a week learn as much as students attending class on the usual five-day schedule.

"My indication right now is that it doesn't make any difference," he said.

Pompeo said a survey showed only four students disliked the shorter school week and only nine parents objected. He said he expects many school districts across the nation to study the four-day school schedule this year.

organizations came to the Herald's support.

In Miami, Lee Hills, chairman and chief executive officer of Knight Newspapers Inc., and the Herald's publisher, said the court reaffirmed the basic principle that the government should not dictate the content of a free press.

"The Knight Newspapers and most others routinely print replies to criticism," Hills said in a statement. "We believe that as editors we have an awesome responsibility to be fair to all points of view, and to seek out and publish those views."

"Our Miami Herald repeatedly printed the views of candidate Tornillo, but the editor bid when the candidate held a legal gun at the editor's head and threatened criminal penalties."

Tornillo, contacted in Miami, said he was surprised by the court's ruling. He said he believes that the overwhelming majority of American citizens want a fair right to reply law which would not infringe on freedom of the press.

"I completely disagree with the concept that such a law violates the First Amendment," Tornillo said. "Freedom of the press is not an absolute."

Justice Byron R. White filed a separate opinion agreeing with Burger's conclusions in the case but dissenting in stinging terms from the court's decision on libel suits by private individuals.

"To me it is a near absurdity to do deprecate individual dignity... and to leave the people at the complete mercy of the press, at least in this stage of our history when the press, as the majority in this case so well documents, is steadily becoming more powerful and much less likely to be deterred by threats of libel suits," White wrote.

The court held in 1964 and 1967 that public officials and public figures could collect for libel only by proving reckless disregard for the truth or falsity of what was published. Tuesday's decision extended this part of the way to private persons.

"We hold that the states may not permit recovery of presumed or punitive damages, at least when liability is not based on a showing of knowledge of falsity or reckless disregard for the truth," Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. wrote for the court.

Punitive damages are those designed to punish the perpetrator of the libel. Presumed damages are those presumed from the fact of publication, without the necessity of proving harm to a person's reputation.

In holding that plaintiffs can recover only for "actual injury" on a showing of mere negligence, the court said damages of this sort would not be limited to out-of-pocket loss. It said they could also include damages for impairment of reputation and standing, personal humiliation and mental anguish and suffering, if supported by the evidence.

New York Times News Summary

Nixon Hails NATO

Brussels — President Nixon, on arriving here to confer with Western European leaders before heading for his summit meeting in Moscow with Leonid I. Brezhnev, hailed the anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said he expected the Brussels meeting would give new purpose to an organization he has praised as indispensable to European peace since 1949.

Al Fatah Claims Raid

Cairo — Al Fatah, the largest and most moderate of the Palestinian resistance organizations, said in Baghdad that it was responsible for the commando operation in Nahariya in northern Israel that resulted in seven dead. Because Fatah has never before openly claimed such responsibility, the announcement was seen as a sign that like the more radical Palestinian groups, it will maintain pressure by armed attacks on Israel.

U.S. Recalls Ambassador

Washington — The United States recalled its ambassador from the Sudan because of that country's "virtual release of confessed murderers" of two senior American and one Belgian diplomat in 1973. The State Department said the Sudanese authorities had reneged on a promise to punish the eight murderers severely. The terrorists were flown from Khartoum to Cairo.

Naturalization Inquiry Reopened

Washington — A House subcommittee reopened Tuesday its inquiry into alleged corruption in the Immigration and Naturalization Service as a result of charges two weeks ago that a Justice Department investigation had been a "cover-up."

IRS Drops Investigation

San Diego — The IRS has withdrawn from a federal grand jury's criminal investigation of C. Arnholt Smith and has notified the long-time friend of President Nixon that it will not prosecute him on charges of income tax fraud. The reasons behind the decision remain obscure.

Nixon Illness Common

New York — The phlebitis condition that President Nixon has suffered over recent weeks is common and not serious if treated properly. Nevertheless, phlebitis can lead to sudden fatal complications in some people. Doctors attending Nixon on his flight to Moscow insisted that the President's case was "mild" and that there was "no danger of a blood clot" traveling from the inflamed vein in his leg to his lung.

SCOOP! ICE CREAM IS BACK!

Your very own homemade ice cream for the holiday celebration at the picnic or other family get-together. can be fun to make and great to eat. Homemade ice cream can be as varied as you choose; just let your imagination dictate.

Start with a basic vanilla recipe. Lots of imaginative additions, a good ice cream freezer, and you're all set. Most recipes will taste oversweet before freezing. Use the best, richest ingredients you can afford; the taste will be worth it.

Freeze the mixture in a churn-type freezer and allow it to cure or harden for about an hour. To cure, remove the dasher and cover the can with plastic wrap and the can cover. Drain half of the water from the tub and pack with crushed ice and salt around and over the can. Cover with several thicknesses of newspaper for insulation. Don't hesitate to take the curing ice cream to the beach, park or picnic. When properly packed in ice and salt, ice cream should stay firm for four to six hours. "Make it, then take it!"

Here is my favorite recipe for quick and easy basic vanilla. If you want recipes for different flavors of ice cream, please write to me.

OLD FASHIONED VANILLA ICE CREAM
6 eggs 1 quart half-n-half
2 cups sugar or whipping cream
2 tbsp. vanilla 1 quart milk
6 tbsp. salt
Beat eggs until light colored. Add sugar and salt gradually. Continue beating until thick and creamy. Add cream, milk and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Chill and churn-freeze according to your freezer's directions. Makes a gallon.

The President's Weakness

Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the exiled Russian writer, was interviewed by CBS's Walter Cronkite recently and the Nobel Prize winner, anti-Soviet, but a Russian patriot still, had much to say which will further discourage those in the U.S. who are already discouraged by the prospects of President Nixon's upcoming trip to Sochi, Minsk and Moscow.

Solzhenitsyn in the first place doesn't believe that detente has worked either for the United States or for the masses of Soviet citizens and their counterparts in other East European Communist states, but only for the ruling clique in the Kremlin.

And he thinks that the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact comrades are far superior militarily to the United States and its NATO allies. The author may not be a military expert, but he is a knowledgeable person with informative contacts in both the east and west and his estimation of the tipping of the balance of power may not be too far off base.

Solzhenitsyn said that the old treaties — such as those on West Berlin and the most recent nuclear arms limitation pact — are being violated, so there isn't much hope for writing any new agreements during this June summit meeting which will be adhered to.

"Never before has the President of the United States been in such a weak position as he is at the moment," the writer said. "He is now so weak that he does not have the strength to dictate to the Soviet Union. In any case, the old treaties are not being carried out. Your President does not have sufficient strength to demand proper control of these treaties," he told Cronkite.

The President's politically weak position is a point of consternation here at home. While the nation may be divided as to his complicity in the scandals that have rocked the country during the past two or three years and on whether he should leave or be thrown out of office, the nation is united, we believe, in hoping that he can effect additional measures for peace, but the nation is worried about his ability to pull it off.

There are many people in the U.S. who agree with Solzhenitsyn that the President may be too weak to demand terms in any forthcoming agreement which will adequately protect the U.S. and the rest of the west.

In that case, it may be better, as the generals in the Pentagon and many of the leaders of Congress say, that no agreement at all in Moscow this June would be much better than an agreement which in the long-run would weaken the position of the United States but might make the President look good politically at home during the critical next few months.

Terry Interested Again?

We don't remember the quote verbatim, but it went something like this: "If I lose this election (for the lieutenant governor nomination), I'll get out of his (Gov. Exon's) hair, resign from the Legislature and never run for public office again."

Thus spake Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who lost the election on May 14, resigned from the Legislature, and again promised that his political career was at an end.

Except that now there is a "remote possibility" that he might become a write-in candidate for his old seat in the Legislature this year. "Some people have asked me to do it," he acknowledged in an interview with The Star this week, "but I won't make any final decision until October."

The write-in route would be exceedingly difficult, even for Carpenter, who has proved to be immensely popular as a legislative candidate in the 48th district. He can't get his name printed on the ballot as a petition candidate and the write-in route is made more difficult by the fact that Scottsbluff uses voting machines. Plus, one of the primary election nominees for Carpenter's old seat, William Nichol, is a proven vote-getter in the area, having been mayor of Scottsbluff, a city councilman, and now serving as a county commissioner.

Still, Carpenter is not the type of fellow who would be scared out of a race by the opposition or the mechanics of the election process.

It will all depend on whether he wants to get back into the action again. What only a month ago was absolutely no possibility, has become a "remote possibility" and it very well could go from there to a very real possibility to an actual fact — his entrance into the 48th District race.

Stranger things have happened. You can't count Terry out, no matter what he says.

RUSSELL BAKER

The American Privilege

WASHINGTON — One reward of writing a regular newspaper column is the discovery of the rich variety of dissent which still thrives in the United States. Every week the mail brings refreshing evidence that Americans remain a wonderfully disputatious race eager to catch out the arrogant columnist in his foolishness and torment him with demands for public confession of his poor judgment, muddled thought, careless cruelties, subversive opinion, bad grammar, weak history, and general ignorance.

As a tribute to all who try to keep us honest in this business, this space is devoted today to the dissenters and their dissenters. The most vigorous of these right now, of course, are the people who believe President Nixon is a great man who is being destroyed by newspapers and television.

They usually write in rage and at length. They contend, with only minor variations, that columns unfavorable to the President are animated by personal vindictiveness, mental illness, bias toward the Democratic Party, ideological zealotry and a desire to see communism triumphant in the United States. Occasionally, a more tolerant dissenter concedes that they result from mere stupidity.

Present political passions, however, rarely produce the kind of dissent that reveals the wide range of interest which occupies the American mind. A New England gentleman, offended by a patronizing remark about Calvin Coolidge, protests that Coolidge was in fact an intelligent and witty man of considerable substance, and deplores the column's perpetuating the notion of "Silent Cal" as a national joke. He wants to see a full column that would finally do justice to Coolidge's excellence.

Numerous persons have written in anger, contempt or pity about this column's frequent allusions to the difficulty of reading Marcel Proust.

They want it known that Proust is a great writer, so let it be said. Proust is a great writer.

Coolidge wasn't so bad, either.

A student of Latin points out that the columnist must be dumb about Latin grammar, which is proven by his writing "Omnia Gallia" instead of the correct "Omnis Gallia."

A student of English points out that the columnist is not the suave master of the mother tongue he obviously fancied himself when he criticized Jefferson for the phrase "a more perfect union," on grounds that perfection is an unmodifiable condition.

How could a columnist, he asks, have the gall to dismiss Jefferson's prose and then, a few paragraphs later in the same article, write about "chopped hamburger," thus committing a redundancy that would shame a schoolboy? A fine scalpel under a columnist's ribs, that one.

A column critical of the telephone system irritates a New Jersey man, and a column critical of corporate campaign gifts to politicians provokes a New Yorker to write in defense of Consolidated Edison. In America there are people who still like AT & T and Con Ed, which may even be big news. In any event, there is the fact. You may not believe it, but these wonderful dissenters have put it in writing.

The greatest volume of dissent ever produced by a single column in this space dealt not with Watergate or Vietnam, but with coffee grounds. The column merely noted that there was absolutely no agreement in America about whether it was better to dispose of coffee grounds by putting them down the sink or in the garbage.

For months afterwards, bales of letters arrived pointing out that neither was the best way of getting rid of coffee grounds. The best thing to do with them, every letter agreed, was to use them for garden mulch.

It is impossible to mention anyone's home town in print without offending almost every letter-writer who lives there. Write that Buffalo is one of the finest cities in the world and dozens of enraged Buffalonians write that they have been insulted because you did not point out that it is the finest city in the world.

Thus, let it be said that in the opinion of various dissenters the finest city in the world is Buffalo, N.J.; St. Louis; Rahway, N.J.; Baltimore; Birmingham; Miami Beach; Buzzard's Bay, Massachusetts; and several dozen others whose credentials are lost in the letter files here.

Several people object to making fun of Santa Claus in print. Dozens believe the column has done a vast disservice to the nation by showing insufficient respect for mothers on this past Mother's Day and for father on Father's Day five or six years ago. A young woman in St. Louis advises the columnist that his recent discussion of undergraduates at the University of Colorado shows a complete ignorance of American Youth.

Numerous militant women would like the general readership warned that the columnist is a sexist swine and a plumber in Atlanta would like to damage the columnist's nose for suggesting in print that American plumbing is too backward to keep bathtub water from leaking through the living-room ceiling.

The day after tomorrow a letter will arrive stating that this column is an imbecilic waste of valuable newsprint that could have been better used to expound the excellence of Marcel Proust, Henry Kissinger, off-track betting, transcendental meditation, youthful ideals, or soybeans.

'Who's Responsible For These Leaks?'

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Fogg Took Aisick Pills!

NEW YORK — Ah, it is summer vacation time again, and millions of Americans will be on the move, and thousands of them (judging from past statistics) will become ill or be injured.

Isn't that an arresting thought (you could get arrested, too, you know) for the holidays? Travel itineraries and problems seem to go hand in paw, as doctors frequently remind us, and yet vacationers planning trips rarely have a precaution in their heads — much less their luggage.

Physicians are always urging parents, for instance, to be sure their children are checked out and physically prepared before a trip, a suggestion that traditionally brings a snappy retort such as, "The kids are prepared all right, but is Camp Oochykoosy prepared for them?"

However, it is time to stop laughing off the potential problem, according to experts on international health and travel. At a symposium I attended, doctors announced that up to 80% of our children will suffer some motion sickness in auto travel each summer; that overweight people have a tendency to get considerably sicker on trips than underweights; and that any "hidden" physical weakness is likely to show up distressingly on a vacation from home.

And in a warning article, clipped from a national travel magazine, it is further predicted that no matter how healthy a person may be, if he is taking an extended holiday that involves visiting several distant areas, he is almost certain to be ill at least part of the time.

It needn't happen, however, if a person or family follows some rather simple procedures: Anyone who needs prescription drugs should take enough to last the entire vacation, plus a spare prescription in case the medicines are lost. Also take an extra pair of eyeglasses, and a prescription for a replacement in emergency.

TOM WICKER

NEW YORK: Charles Colson, who entered a guilty plea under terms of an arrangement with Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, appears to have received a slightly stiffer sentence than Swight Chapin, who spurned a guilty plea and insisted on trial.

Judge Gerhard A. Gesell sentenced Colson to one to three years in prison and a $5,000 fine for the one count of obstructing justice to which Colson confessed. Earlier, when Chapin was found guilty of two counts of lying to a grand jury, Gesell sentenced him to 10 to 30 months in prison (Chapin is appealing).

While it is hard to compare the gravity of offenses, and the public cannot be sure what other charges Colson might have been convicted of, had he not made his plea bargain, his penalty is at least a partial answer to critics who are charging Jaworski with being too generous in his plea bargaining with the Watergate defendants.

Jaworski can point out, moreover, that Gesell could have given either Colson or Chapin a stiffer sentence than he did. Neither reply is likely to still the voices of the numerous people — Attorney General Saxbe is the latest — who want to see Jaworski and the courts "throw the book" at the Watergate defendants.

They argue, with much force, that the crimes alleged are also serious breaches of public trust, and as such should be penalized more not less severely than ordinary violations of law. Despite Chapin's example, they believe that defendants who insist on a trial and are found guilty are likely to receive tougher sentences; G. Gordon Liddy, for example, is doing six to 20 years for his part in the Watergate break-in.

Plea bargains, moreover, are arrived at in confidence and can leave the public confused as to exactly who did what: Colson's guilty plea on a narrow charge does not tell much about what appears to have been his broad role in White House undercover activities.

Jaworski and his staff can and do reply that they do not have the manpower to bring every Watergate defendant to trial within a reasonable period. For each guilty plea, they have exacted a pledge that the defendant will provide evidence and testify at other defendants' trials — something that could not have been guaranteed by putting the guilty pleader on trial.

Moreover, a plea bargain insures a finding of guilt and at least some penalty, when in a trial everything from a balky jury to insufficient evidence might result in a no-guilty verdict (and Nixon's refusal to provide evidence might result in some cases having to be dismissed). Plea bargaining, its defenders claim, is as American as cherry pie: the criminal justice system could not function without it.

Now, vacationers. Now you're converted hypochondriacs, have a wonderful trip. In case you still feel like leaving home...

Dist. by King Features Synd.

'Mercy For Those Who Swing It' criticism of Jaworski's conduct of the Watergate cases.

It is that plea bargaining and light sentences (30 days suspended for Richard G. Kleindienst, the former attorney general, on misdemeanor charge) mean that serious political crimes by high public officials are being treated lightly, in comparison to the long prison sentences commonly handed out for "ordinary" crimes — robberies, muggings, and the like.

The most glaring example of that was not Jaworski's doing, but that of former Attorney General Elliot Richardson, who obtained Spiro Agnew's resignation as vice president only by allowing him to plead nolo contendere to a minor tax evasion charge and thus escape severe sentence. Richardson's understandable priority was to take

"You Wouldn't Walk Over Your Own Leader. Would You?"

In fact, however, the Watergate sentences make more sense than the Draconian penalties handed out to people convicted of robberies and assaults and other such crimes. Sending such people to prison for long terms usually results in more frequent and more serious criminal behavior after their release.

Rather than insisting that the Watergate defendants ought to get the same medicine handed out to street muggers, therefore, Jaworski's critics — especially Mr. Saxbe — might do better to seize upon the situation to point out the obvious inequities and the self-defeating nature of criminal sentencing in America.

To put Charlie Colson in "The Joint" for six years instead of three might remove some of the inequity of a bad system, but it would do nothing constructive to change the system itself.

Cherish Right To Vote

Lincoln, Neb.

As Nebraskans, have we gotten our money's worth from our tax dollars we pay each year to our local, state and national governments?

We call them primary and general elections and as Nebraskans, we should exercise our right to vote and should cherish this right. It took many years to accomplish the system and many sacrifices. We should see that our two-party system works honestly and no more Watergates. Selfishness, greed, dishonesty and dishonor have no place in the making of American history.

We don't have to vote the straight party ticket. We mark or punch the name of item listed in the election booth and in privacy. We should consider the candidates and the issues individually.

City Boy and Country Boys

Lincoln, Neb.

The other day Hess Dyas called for the resignation of Earl Butz, secretary of agriculture, and accused Congressman Charles Thone of doing nothing to help agriculture.

Just for the record, Secretary Butz and Congressman Thone were vigorously against the freeze on meat prices over a year ago. This action (meat freeze) precipitated the major part of the problem we face today. Also, it was the pressure of a Democratic Congress and eastern housewives that forced the President to freeze the meat prices.

Where was Hess Dyas at that time? Perhaps he should have been lobbying those Democrats who supported the meat freeze. Dyas also referred to effective agricultural leadership in Congress. This raises a question in my mind. Secretary Butz put it in a speech this way — there are about 50 congressmen representing truly agricultural districts. Fifty out of 435 represent the farm bloc. It is not hard to explain why agriculture gets the short end of the stick from Congress.

In Mr. Dyas' message, he called for the suspension of meat imports, investigations of meat-pricing, and emergency loans. This all sounds very nice but Congressman Thone announced June 3 that he had an eight-point program developed to help solve the agricultural problem. Included in his program were the immediate suspension of all meat imports, loans to help feedlot operators, and investigations of retail food-pricing.

Mr. Dyas appears to be using the same news story as Congressman Thone — only watered down. All he was doing is repeating what Thone had said over two weeks ago. If this is all Dyas has to contribute, I suggest he save his breath. What we do not need is an instant replay from a city politician on farm problems.

As for knowledge on farming problems, Congressman Thone was brought up on a farm, as was Secretary Butz, and they have been farmers. Hess Dyas was brought up in a city and has never farmed in his life. I suggest Dyas campaign in the urban areas where he will not be insulting our farming communities in the First District. It takes more than a campaign photograph standing next to a pig to know farming problems.

Life In Mahoney Manor

Lincoln, Neb.

I have lived in several residence areas in Lincoln, and also in a trailer court and over the years have paid a lot of taxes. I worked very hard for schools and we got them.

I now live in Mahoney Manor and have never been so happy as I am here. I see in The Star that the folks in the vicinity of 68th and L Streets are opposed to the Lincoln Housing Authority's putting up a beautiful building for the elderly.

Have those who are opposed ever come to visit our Mahoney Manor? I'll bet if they did and could see how happy we are and meet the beautiful people living here, they would change their minds.

We older folks need homes close to transportation and shopping, and that location would be ideal. Folks there want a church. This is good. I love my church and appreciate every one there, but they do have churches in that vicinity.

I feel as if I were already living in heaven. Surely no one would deprive an older person of a place like this to live in his last years.

We hope folks will come to visit us here.

Russian People Have Misconceptions, But Curious About U.S.

By CHRISTOPHER S. WREN

Moscow — The questions follow one upon another with sometimes relentless repetition. How much money does the average American worker earn? How many hours does he labor to buy a pair of shoes? Can he own a car? How big an apartment does he have? How much must he pay for rent?

For the Soviet people, Moscow's much-heralded accommodation with Washington has only intensified their abiding curiosity about America. The United States has long been the yardstick by which most Russians, officially as well as privately, measure not only their country's but the material well-being of their own lives.

The glow of détente, lit by President Nixon's visit in 1972, has made it respectable for Russians to express their lively interest in America more openly. It has also brought a distinct minority of the young, better educated and more influential an opportunity for greater accessibility to information about the United States.

But as Nixon returns to Moscow two years later, a realistic comprehension of America and its people is still generally beyond the reach of the average Soviet citizen.

U.S. Portrayed Unfavorably

The official press continues to paint American life in its bleakest and most unflattering hues and any potentially balancing flow of information from the West is severely circumscribed if not barred. As a result, most Russians still retain their lingering feelings of ambivalence toward the United States.

In this respect, one of detente's most conspicuous dividends came last September with an end of the Soviet jamming of the Voice of America, which enjoys a loyal listening audience here than can only be estimated in tens of millions. Tuning in nightly is no longer the furtive exercise that it used to be, and people sometimes talk about it openly.

Increasing cultural and educational exchanges as well as the growing numbers of American tourists — over 91,000 last year — have permitted more fact-to-face contact, however carefully controlled, although in the Soviet hinterlands the American visitor is still regarded as an oddity.

Expertise Acquired

Some Russians have acquired impressive expertise about specific slices of American life, running from its architecture to its rock 'n' roll music. But with the limited facts available, they find it difficult to grasp the over-all texture of American life.

Unemployment and health insurance, mortgages, car payments, scholarships and even the quality and variety of consumer goods are concepts that leave them confused or even openly skeptical.

The depth of knowledge about America seems to diminish with the older and less-educated, just as it fades away outside the tourist and port cities into the broad expanses of the Soviet Union itself.

One class of Soviet citizens — diplomats, trade officials, journalists and tourist guides — has been encouraged in contacts with Americans to develop a level of sophistication about the United States. But the man on the street must piece together his own image of America as best he can.

No American Papers

Unless he listens to the Voice of America, he is dependent upon the interpretation of the Soviet press. No American newspapers are sold in the Soviet Union except the Daily World, organ of the American Communist Party.

No American magazines are allowed, except the glossy Russian-language monthly Amerika published by the United States Information Agency, which by agreement can print nothing that would offend the Soviet leadership. Its limited circulation is set at 62,000 copies and is linked to the reciprocal Soviet distribution in the United States of the magazine Soviet Life.

Even so, lines form outside kiosks here the day that the slick, colorful issues go on sale. New copies have fetched up to six times the 50-kopek newstand price. Soviet authorities usually turn back 500 to 1,500 copies of each issue, not admitting that demand far exceeds supply.

Books Snapped Up

With the same enthusiasm, they snap up translations of ideologically approved American books almost as soon as the works reach the bookstore shelves.

The most persistent concerns are material. A wiry Communist Party secretary at a state farm in Tadzhikistan last month asked two visiting American journalists what they thought about Soviet-American relations and China. Having disposed of the political preliminaries, he went on to inquire what the Americans paid back home for trousers, suits, watches, ballpoint pens, vodka, wine, milk and apartment rentals, as well as what an agricultural worker earned.

Some basic questions reflect an ingenuous simplicity. "I've heard that in America the buildings are so high that some people who live in them never see the sunlight," remarked a pleasant middle-aged woman in Yerevan a month ago. In the ancient Central Asian city of Samarkand, an elderly chest maker inquired, "How far is the United States? In which direction? What time is it there?"

Sometimes the questioners grope in search of something to share. For instance, Russians usually seem delighted to hear about "moonshine" whisky in the United States, because they have their own counterpart, known as "samagon."

'No Line? Impossible!'

"How can there not be a line in a store?" scoffed an educated Moscow woman. "It's impossible."

Others found it as hard to believe that a new car could be purchased from the showroom floor or that a military draft no longer existed.

The idea of unrestricted movement in the United States has also baffled some Russians who have never questioned carrying their internal passports. "But if you don't have an internal passport, how do you identify yourself?" asked one perplexed woman.

The Soviet press has been particularly successful at driving home the image of Americans vulnerable to every malicious vagary of the capitalist West. "Is it safe to go to America with all the shootings and the fires in the skyscrapers?" one medical student asked. "America. I hear that it's a good place to live — if you have money," laughed a teen-age girl working at a steel mill in Zaporozhe.

No Longer Warmonger

The United States is no longer portrayed as a warmonger poised to unleash some terrible surprise attack upon the Soviet people, and the American people themselves are credited for having good intentions. Mutual cooperation, from space exploration to trade and medical research, is receiving greater press play.

But the ideological battle persists, though it is waged on a narrower front.

With the visit of Nixon around the corner, the official press agency Tass last week reported that "millions of American citizens are under constant surveillance by various government agencies," that "millions of so-called prosperous Americans continue to suffer from malnutrition and even outright hunger" and that "political trials of dissidents on faked-up political charges take place. Melding American press reports with innuendo, Tass went on to tell of American poverty, inequality, racism, strikes, inflation and falling educational standards. Tass has particularly favored reports on the repressions of blacks and Indians, whom it referred to at least once as "coloreds" and "aborigines."

Still, the United States retains a capacity to fascinate. "We learn to read between the lines," insisted one Moscow youth.

'72 Cars Reported Polluting

Detroit (AP) — Four major automakers were notified by the government Tuesday that up to 1.4 million of their 1972-model cars appear in violation of federal air pollution standards and may be subject to recall.

An Environmental Protection Agency spokesman in Washington said the apparent violations involve cars built by General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Volkswagen. He said the automakers would be given 10 days to respond to the EPA's findings.

He said the companies' Washington representatives were notified by hand-delivered letters this morning. Phone calls to company headquarters were made at the same time, the spokesman said.

GM, Chrysler and Volkswagen said today they have received notification from the EPA about the findings but would have no comment at the present time. Ford spokesmen were unavailable for comment.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said Monday the agency might order a massive recall of 1972-model cars because of pollution problems, but he declined to go into detail about the campaign.

The agency spokesman said the pollution standard violations were found during road tests of some 2,400 cars, representing 70 per cent of all 1972 models sold in the United States.

The Clean Air Act authorizes the EPA to test cars in actual use to ensure they meet federal emission standards, he said. EPA certification tests require that new model cars comply with the standards for 50,000 miles.

Federal emission standards for hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide exhaust levels in 1972 models are the same as for current model cars. The government now has a standard covering nitrogen oxide emissions not covering 1972 models.

"We found that there were several classes of cars exceeding (1972) pollution standards," the EPA spokesman said. "We are telling the manufacturers today that these cars appear to violate the standards and we're giving them 10 days to respond, to look over our data and analyze it."

The spokesman said the EPA would not issue a final recall until the companies have had a chance to respond to the findings. "We want to make sure of our data so the cars recalled are the ones causing the problems," he said.

"We have received notification of emissions failures but we will have nothing to say until we have a chance to review the data," a Chrysler spokesman said.

A GM spokesman said the firm was notified today of the possible recall but has not received the full test results.

Volkswagen said it would have no formal reply to the EPA until reviewing the data. The company estimated 300,000 of its cars may be involved in the recall. GM and Chrysler would not say how many of their cars may be involved.

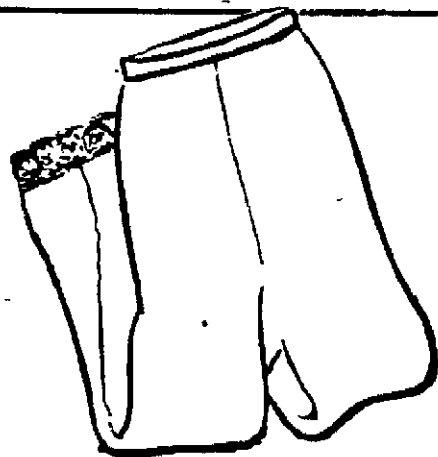

Furnishings Stolen

Three mobile homes in Bell North Village, 19th and Superior were burglarized and articles valued at about $1,000 were taken police said. Police said the articles included couches, chairs, carpets, pillows, bedspreads and a stereo tape player.

Or Write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, NE 68501

The railroad tracks one and one-half miles west of Walton are in terrible shape. Many of us here are ruining our cars by driving over them every day. Please help get them mended fast.

—Dan Kayler, Walton

ACTION LINE: G.R. Parks, local agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, 800 S St., said the railroad's roadmaster would be out to check the tracks within a week. He said that if there are chuckholes or spikes sticking up, Missouri Pacific will make repairs immediately.

Please give me the names of some reputable motorcycle repair schools and their addresses.

—Mrs. Ralph Moeller, Dunbar

—Advanced Tech Inc., Box 716, New Smyrna Beach, Fla., 32069.
—American Motorcycle Institute Inc., 1445 Skytrooper Road, Daytona Beach, Fla. 32014. This school also offers courses by correspondence.

—Atlanta Motorcycle Institute, Box 646, Smyrna, Ga., 30080.
—Cycle Institute of America, 2065 So. Osage St., Denver, Colo., 80223.

—Midwest Training Center, 2826 McGee Trafficway, Kansas City, Mo., 64108.

In addition, there is an eight-week course tentatively scheduled to begin July 10 at Goodwin Cycle, 2220 No. 27th St. The course, costing $15, is offered through the Southeast Community College. Contact Ken Pluth at the college, 720 So. 27th St., for more information.

Are there any local radio stations that carry the oldtime radio dramas?

—Mrs. Ed Hart, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Bob Minter, operations manager for KLIN radio, 400 So. 13th St., said he doesn't know of any area stations that air the complete 15-30-minute episodes. "They're rather expensive," he said.

However, KLIN does air excerpts of the oldies as part of other programming. No definite times were available.

Why is the curbing from 22nd and Van Dorn Sts. east being torn up and replaced? There seems to be no need for it.

—Connie Strauss, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Lincoln Project Engineer Tom Cast said spots between 17th and 27th Sts. on Van Dorn St. have the gutter pan decayed by salt action. Eventually the salt may eat up the entire curb and gutter, resulting in an extreme safety hazard, he said.

Why was the curfew removed for children under 19?

—N.H., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Lt. Willis Gordon of the Lincoln Police Dept. Juvenile Division says it must have been removed quite a while ago, because there has never been a legal curfew during his 20 years on the force. However, he said it might be a good idea to return to curfew for juveniles. If the police notice a 13- or 14-year-old out at 2 a.m., they usually stop the child for questioning, and may take him to the police station for further investigation, Gordon said.

On March 27 I sent a $9.98 check for eight-track tapes to Dynamic Hits, 27th and Douglas, Omaha. What happened to my tapes? I'm still waiting.

—Sandra Bowen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Denise Steele, sales department clerk at KETV in Omaha, said their station acts as a mailing house for Dynamic Hits. The orders are filled by Columbia House in Terre Haute, Ind.

Georgia Meyers, supervisor of mailing for Columbia House, said there must have been some mix-up with your order and promised your tapes would be sent out by air mail immediately.

Demos To Scramble For Slots At Convention

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Eighty-one persons, including some of the most familiar names in Nebraska Democratic politics, will scramble next Sunday for 11 delegate slots at this year's Democratic mini-convention in Kansas City.

The eleven openings will be filled by the Democratic state convention, which meets in Norfolk this weekend.

Four delegates will be selected by a caucus of 1st District state convention delegates. Three each will be elected in 2nd and 3rd District caucuses.

One delegate will be named by the convention at large.

Exon To Attend

Those 11 will join Gov. J. James Exon, the party's state chairman and the state vice chairperson to form Nebraska's 14-member delegation at the December meeting.

State Chairman Dick White of Lincoln is expected to win re-election at the state convention. His current vice chairperson is Dorothy Ley of Wayne.

On the list of contenders for the 11 elected positions are National Committeeman Tom Kelley of Omaha and National Committeewoman Frances Ohmsted of Guide Rock.

Fowler, Cavanaugh Compete State Sens. Steve Fowler of Lincoln and John Cavanaugh III of Omaha are candidates.

Others include State AFL-CIO President William Brennan of Omaha; Vic Meyers, state director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE); Guy Cooper of Humboldt, a leader in George McGovern's

Nebraska presidential campaign; Wallace Peterson of Lincoln, twice a candidate for the U.S. Senate; Kurt Rasmussen of Omaha, the party's nominee for state treasurer; Carol Dyas, whose husband Hess is the 1st District congressional nominee, and Stan Porras, director of the Mexican-American Commission.

54 Men, 27 Women

Among the 81 candidates are 54 men and 27 women; 64 persons over 30 and 17 below that age; 74 whites and seven non-whites; 75 persons with family incomes above $5,000 a year and six with incomes below that figure.

Unlike the selection process for the 1972 Democratic national convention, this one does not mandate quotas. But delegate candidates do list their sex, age, income and "minority" status for informational purposes.

One candidate has also informed White that he would like it known that he is a supporter of Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Although the so-called mini-convention, officially known as the Conference on Democratic Organization and Policy, has been summoned chiefly to write a party charter, it "probably can do what it chooses" once it convenes, White said.

Presidential politicking will surely be one of the key activities of the Dec. 6-8 meeting.

The conference will be composed of 2,043 delegates, including all Democratic senators, congressmen and governors.

Workperson

Emily Runkle of Boulder, Colo. is a workperson for an Erie, Colo., landscaping firm. She is paid the same wages as men working for the firm, a spokesman said.

Boycott Threatened By Indian Students

The Council of American Indian Students at the University of Nebraska voted Tuesday to boycott federally-funded minority student aid programs if NU does not meet a list of demands by Sept. 1.

Most of the demands contend minority programs at the university are not designed for Indians.

Another contends that Karen Buller, counselor for Indian students at the university, was harassed by university officials.

The council said it hoped the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would withdraw funds from the minority programs if Indians did not participate.

There are about 35 Indian students at the university.

If the demands are not met, the council said it would ask the university of channel one-third of the minority funds from existing programs into the Nebraska Indian Commission.

A spokesman for the council said more than $78,000 was involved in the programs.

Frank Black Elk, a Lincoln

American Indian Movement leader, said AIM was supporting the students' position and was "on standby in case these demands are not met."

The students said the minority programs at NU were run by blacks, whites and Mexican Americans who were not sensitive to Indian needs. They said, however, that there was no conflict among students from different minority groups.

The Indians said they became dissatisfied with the minority programs after Mrs. Buller was evaluated by the administration and placed on probation. Mrs. Buller said she was evaluated by white standards which should not apply to an Indian counselor.

She resigned effective Sept. 1. Then, the Nebraska Indian Commission adopted a resolution supporting her and the Indian students.

$140,000 More For Follow Through To Be Asked

Follow Through programs in Lincoln this fall will be expanded with approval Tuesday night by the Lincoln Board of Education to request an additional $140,000 to provide seven more kindergartens.

Supt. John Prasch said the original request for a $401,123 federal grant has been "confirmed" for Follow Through, guaranteeing extended kindergarten at all six program sites.

The additional request was permitted by recently passed legislation. In May, school district officials believed funding for pre-school programs would be cut.

Request Modified

The board also modified its request for a $43,566 one-year grant from the U.S. Office of Education (USOE) to establish a bilingual program at Park Elementary School, beginning July 1.

Nomination Certificates Now Mailed

By United Press International The secretary of state's office said Tuesday certificates of nomination have now been mailed out to all successful candidates in the May primary election.

Some certificates were held back because some candidates had not filed all campaign financial reports required by law.

Those nominated who failed to file the reports on time included Wilda Foran of Arnold in the 7th District state board of education race and Harold O. Peterson of Omaha in the 8th District race.

In legislative races, Richard Giblin of Omaha, a candidate in the 6th District, failed to file on time.

Others included Jim Keillor and Tom Fitzgerald, both of Omaha, in the 14th District; Gerald Jay Harrington of Omaha in the 20th District, and Keith Pettijean of Stamford in the 38th District.

Dyas Raises $3000 Fund At Receptions

By United Press International The Dyas for Congress Organization said Tuesday more than $3,000 was raised for its candidate in the 1st District Friday night.

The evening's activities included 35 receptions in various homes in Lincoln and nearby communities, hosted by supporters of Hess Dyas, the district's Democratic nominee.

Later in the night, those who had been at the receptions attended a dance at a Lincoln ballroom.

KMTV, KETV Settle Lawsuit Out Of Court

Omaha (AP) — The managements of television stations KMTV and KETV in Omaha Tuesday jointly announced that a lawsuit between them and weather reporter Donna Meyer has been amicably settled out of court, and that the suit was dismissed.

Miss Meyer, whose real name is Sheryl Donnermeyer, jumped from KMTV to KETV April 29. KMTV filed suit against KETV and Miss Donnermeyer, alleging that KETV had unjustifiably interfered with KMTV's business in luring Miss Donnermeyer away.

KMTV asked for $50,000 in damages, and "such sums as the plaintiff will be damaged in the future as a result of the illegal acts of the defendants."

KMTV is owned by the May Broadcasting Co., KETV is owned by the Channel 7 Corp.

Details of the settlement between the two stations were not released.

The change reflects USOE guidelines, to provide two teachers with federal funds to teach one part of the curriculum in another language for all children.

Prasch said parents who objected would have the option of removing their children from the program.

The course taught in a second language will likely be social studies, he said; it would be the "least troublesome" and allow for teaching alternate cultures at the same time.

'Problem Not Great'

By being limited to Park School, "It is not the program that meets our needs," the superintendent said, noting there are students "all over town" who need bilingual training. However, "our problem is not great" as in other locales, he said.

Spanish is the predominant second language at Park.

The board approved high school tuition rates for non-resident pupils in 1974-75 at $1,400 for grades 7-12 and $1,200 for grades 1-6. Kindergarten costs will be $600.

Based on 180 days of school, the tuition cost is $6.66 for primary students and $7.77 for secondary students.

The board agreed informally to authorize Prasch to send a letter to Meadowlane area parents, soliciting their opinions opposing or supporting a public outdoor swimming pool proposed on the Meadow Lane School site.

Pool Recommended

The City Park Board has recommended building a pool there, and if the City Council agrees, Prasch said he wants parent input before the school board is asked for permission to go ahead.

Only Meadow Lane parents — and no other area residents — will be polled, Prasch said, because the pool would "impinge on the playground and the school itself."

Prasch reported that the new Zeman School at 52nd and Aire "is ready to move things into," and noted no significant construction problems affecting the fall opening.

The 56th St. crossing to Zeman won't be protected by a traffic light when school opens, Prasch said, explaining it will be in the next city budget. He added, "There's no question" that a traffic light will be installed there later.

Progressing Well

Other construction and remodeling at May Morley and Northeast are progressing well, he said.

Helen Weber, R.N., health services supervisor, reported that the school district administered 2,938 tuberculin skin tests, in conjunction with the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department.

The skin test replaces annual chest X-rays for TB case finding, according to board policy, for all present and new employees.

Of the total, Mrs. Weber said 2,708 readings were negative, and 180 were positive. A report on follow-up treatment will be submitted later, she said.

The board will meet next on July 9.

Oil Companies Are Terminating Credit Card Contracts

NEW YORK (AP) — One thing some major credit cards can't do anymore is buy a gallon of gas.

In growing numbers, both major and independent oil companies have been terminating their contracts with the so-called universal card companies such as American Express, BankAmericard, Carte Blanche and Master Charge.

The energy crisis has accelerated the trend by making such arrangements unnecessary and uneconomical for both dealer and parent oil firm, industry spokesman say.

The trend began as early as 1½ years ago, when some of the more localized producers like Clark Oil discontinued their arrangements with BankAmericard and Master Charge.

Exxon, the nation's biggest oil company, recently announced it was discontinuing its agreements with two bank-sponsored credit cards, Master Charge and BankAmericard, as of Oct. 1.

Texaco dropped its agreement with American Express in February, "primarily because we were carrying the charges for our retailers," according to a spokesman. The company still maintains its agreements with Master Charge and BankAmericard and assumes the costs for its gas station dealers.

In April, Mobil cancelled its arrangements with American Express and Carte Blanche, but like Texaco, still honors Master Charge and BankAmericard.

A Mobil spokesman explained the company considered it "uneconomical" to keep up its agreements with American Express and Carte Blanche, since the company had to pay card companies about 5 per cent on each gallon of gas bought to cover credit processing fees.

Those like Exxon that dropped their arrangements with the bank cards complained the bank card companies have been steadily raising their "piece of the action." Several industry spokesmen said oil companies have had to pay anywhere from 3 to 6 per cent to cover the credit processing fee on each gallon of gas bought on a bank card. But a BankAmericard spokesman said the average figure was somewhat lower.

As the price of a gallon of gasoline virtually doubled over the past year, the percentage take of a universal card company, whether 2 per cent or 6 per cent, loomed increasingly large in actual dollars.

A spokesman for Ashland Oil, whose operations are centered in the Appalachian states region, says, it, "Banks have been upping the ante on their cards, and eliminating them is one way of reducing expenditures that force gas prices up."

Gulf Oil says its agreements with BankAmericard will be terminated June 20. "We went into BankAmericard originally for incremental business, which obviously no one needs anymore," a company spokesman says.

The head of Gulf's credit card unit, Glen Egly, says the oil industry generally is narrowing its credit parameters, the results being stiffer guidelines on credit risk and a sharp contraction in the use of anything other than the oil company's own credit cards.

Emphasizing as they often do that their dealerships are really independent businessmen, many oil companies do not expressly forbid a gas station from establishing its own ties with universal credit cards companies.

While bank card companies report some independent dealers are entering into such private relationships, the burden of time and money it places on the dealer is difficult for many to shoulder now that many parent firms are withdrawing their support.

American Express Co., whose credit card probably has been dropped by more oil firms than any other universal card, says it regrets the loss of oil company business, but minimizes its significance. The American Express charge to customer companies is somewhat higher than the bank card average, between 4 and 8 per cent.

At its recent annual meeting, American Express Chairman

Howard L. Clark said less than 2½ per cent of the company's total credit card volume has involved the purchase of oil company products over the last two years, and according to company studies, only about 2 per cent of the company's card carriers regularly use their cards for gas purchases.

The company concedes, however, that "most" of the oil companies they have had credit agreements with have been allowing their contracts to expire. And no new contracts have recently been entered into.

BankAmericard, dropped in recent months by Arco, Exxon, Citgo and Marathon Oil among others, says oil credit tickets have accounted for an average 10 per cent of its billings over the years.

But a BankAmericard spokesman says gas tickets traditionally have not been a profitable part of the company's credit business.

"It costs as much for us to process a $3 gas ticket as a $300 purchase," the spokesman said.

Juveniles Said Committing Half Of U.S. Crimes

BOSTON (AP) — Nearly half the nation's felonies are committed by juveniles, the director of the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said Monday.

Donald E. Santarelli, who has resigned as head of the LEAA but has not yet been replaced, said his agency awarded nearly $140 million during fiscal 1972 for a program to help young people "who fall into the toils of the juvenile justice system."

Report To Aid In Finding Gaps In Health, Welfare

By The Associated Press
The Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee received a preliminary report Tuesday on its efforts to find gaps and overlaps in health and welfare services in Nebraska.

The report, written by the legislative fiscal staff, listed 75 agencies, departments and divisions giving aid to Nebraskans. The committee hopes to take the report and determine where duplication exists and how to avoid it. It is also looking for agencies that do a poor job providing services.

In the second stage of the committee project, senators will hold hearings around the state to learn from recipients and government workers. That stage began this week in Scottsbluff where state Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue held a hearing on the problems of the elderly. Other committees will hold hearings on adults and children.

Lewis said transportation was the No. 1 problem he found in the Panhandle area. He said the state would attempt to find a way to coordinate and expand transportation programs for the elderly.

He said another problem was communication. Lewis said there should be one place an elderly person could go and say, "Look, here's my problem." He said elderly persons have a hard time finding services that are available to them.

He described the nutrition programs for the elderly in the Panhandle as fantastic.

As far as duplication, he said, he did not find any programs for the elderly which should be eliminated. Lewis said his subcommittee would hold four more hearings.

New Niobrara Lots Going Up For Sale

Niobrara (AP) — The first lots at the new townsite of Niobrara have been put up for sale by the Niobrara Development Corp., a non-profit corporation composed of Niobrara residents.

The town is being moved about one mile south because of a rising water table, that already has basements in many homes water-filled. The Army Corps of Engineers is handling the site change.

The order of lot purchases was based on numbers received in a drawing held among residents last February. Of the 23 numbers called in to the planning commission office on Monday, all purchased lots.

Residential lots range in price from $750 to $1,500, with mobile home lots selling for $500 and $600 each.

Commission members noted that early selling seemed to indicate lots prices were not a deciding factor as most of Monday's sales were higher priced lots.

There were 150 lots to be sold in Phase I of the building project and officials expected to reach their goal of having them all sold within 30 days.

At Monday's rate of sale, they could be sold in much less time.

The town of Niobrara is presently situated at the forks of the Niobrara and Missouri rivers and near tail waters of Lewis and Clark Lake.

When the lots were drawn in February, there were 219 families living in the town. The 1970 census showed a population of 602.

Short Kids Get In Free At Powwow

Winnebago — It will be height, not age, which determines which children will get in free at this year's powwow of the Winnebago Indian Tribe.

Flyers for the powwow specify admission for adults will be $2, admission for "children 42 inches and over" $1 and children under 42 inches free.

The flyer did not specify how tribal officials will determine which persons are adults and which are children over 42 inches.

The powwow, the 108th annual for Nebraska Winnebagos, will be July 25 through 28.

Search For Omahan's Body Ends

Logan, Iowa (UPI) — The Harrison County Sheriff's Office has called off the search for a 50-year-old Omaha man who apparently drowned in the Little Sioux River while attempting to save the life of a small girl.

A spokesman for the department Tuesday described further search of Leon Landrum as "futile."

"We've called off the search because we've thoroughly dragged the area on three occasions with no results," said

Deputy Gerald Matheny. "In all probability, the body is either snagged on something or it's already downstream."

Landrum was swept away by the undertow of the Little Sioux River Sunday when he went after a 9-year-old girl who was a member of a fishing party he was chaperoning, according to the sheriff's office.

Authorities said Darlene Henderson, Cleveland, Ohio, who was subsequently saved by another man, went into the water to retrieve a fishing bobber.

Landrum was the father of 10.

Forecast For Wednesday

More Zodiac People: Arles who left me with fond memories. Joyce Mansfield and Taurus who impressed me with her talent and courage. Janet Blair, Capricorn who expresses shy erudition. Steve Allen, Aquarian who wants people to like him; Tom Smothers, Aquarian who talks and listens; Forrest Tucker, Aquarian who talks; Zsa Zsa Gabor, Disappointing Libran; Joyce Brothers, Greatest Gemini; I know, Henry Miller, Poet; Pisces, Anais Nin, Writing Gemini; Irving Shulman, These are more of my Zodiac People. What do you think of them?

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Contracts could be overturned. Be sure promises have something to back them. Study agreements, partnerships. Money could be tied up in escrow. Know it and protect your interests. Mate, partner is not pleased with current arrangement and speaks up about it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Those you depend upon may not follow routine. Means be ready for surprise requests, demands, changes. You may have to take a more independent course. Co-worker frankly admits envy. Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Good lunar aspect now coincides with romance, creative endeavors, exciting opportunities. You get out of emotional rut, feel more alive. You learn and teach. Wise individual offers counsel. Accept.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Diversity, broad horizons, get in spirit of adventure. Social activities increase. You make contacts which can develop into meaningful relationships. Sagittarius, Gemini persons could figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Accent is on movement, opportunity and a degree of confusion. Many people offer advice, opinions. Key is to be selective. Get to bottom line. Means find the reasons and discover motives. Neighbor may complain.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Guard valuables — especially while in transit. Tendency exists to misplace things — and you also find that others want something for nothing — from you. Do some investing. Refuse to sell yourself short. Get fair price for efforts, product.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) Lunar cycle is such that you can make dynamic proposals and expect favorable reactions. Know it and take advantage of it. Press for advantage. Timing is on target! Don't be discouraged by red tape or envious associates. You are due to emerge a winner!

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov 21): Not so good for keeping secrets. What was hidden will come out in open. Be ready and have facts at hand. Explain your position instead of obscuring it. Pisces, Virgo persons are likely to be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some friends may appear to act in devious manner. Be patient. Reorganize priorities. Relationship intensifies. Not wise to play games where emotions are concerned. Lover's quarrel may be on agenda. Seriousness of dispute depends on your degree of maturity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get down to business. Put an end to procrastination. Invest in your abilities. Accept responsibility. Volunteer for overtime assignment. May be cleared for advancement — if you are serious. Another Capricorn and a Cancer are in picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 18) You benefit through travel, correspondence, different viewpoint. Break down barriers of limitation. Your psychology is due to change. You will see in different light. Specifically, you are stimulated to express yourself to more persons more often than in past.

PISCES (Feb 19-March 20): You can rise above petty details. You will see picture as a whole. Key is to do something about what you discover. Dig beneath surface. You will see in different light. Specifically, you are stimulated to talk about money. Be reasonable without neglecting basic goal.

Number Of State Workers In Unions Drops

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

For the second year in a row, the number of state employees belonging to labor organizations has dropped.

Administration officials see the drop as an indicator of growing satisfaction with the improved pay plan and fringe benefits being offered by the state.

However, union officials, while they don't dispute the figures, claim the drop is due to attrition and not any satisfaction with salary and working conditions among state employees.

State Personnel Director William C. Peters said in an interview that as of March, 1974, there were 1,834 state employees having deductions taken out of their paychecks for union dues.

That's down from the March, 1973, total of 2,176 and the March, 1972, total of 2,342.

According to Peters' data, the Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) has suffered the greatest loss, dropping from 1,372 members in 1972 and 1,297 in 1973 to 1,011. Peters indicated much of that drop occurred at the State Department of Roads, where NAPE got its start under a different name.

Its rival, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), also recorded a drop in membership from 970 in 1972 and 879 in 1973 to 823 this year.

State employees, Peters said, now "expect fair and equitable treatment" since Gov. J. James Exon "came through with his promises on wage and fringe benefits."

Credibility Increased

The recent grievance hearing of the ex-director of Rehabilitation Services for the Visually Impaired, Dean McDermott, increases the credibility of the administration, Peters said, because employees know they will receive a fair hearing.

"They realize we're giving them all we possibly can under the law," Peters said noting the Legislature approved a wage increase for fiscal 1975 totaling 5% of their salary plus $300.

For those in the lower income brackets, Peters said this raise will mean an 11-12% increase.

"So why, they think, should they pay $60 per year when they're getting all they can under the law," Peters said.

Mrs. Mary Combs, an organizer for AFSCME, said she expected such an evaluation from the administration, but she said state employees are far from satisfied with the pay plan and fringe benefits.

The fact that 1,200 employees of the State Department of Public Institutions signed cards asking the State Court of Industrial Relations to hold an election to see if AFSCME could be their exclusive bargaining agent indicates that there is considerable dissatisfaction.

"I don't know how accurate Dr. Peters' figures are, but the decline is certainly not due to dissatisfaction with the union," she said.

The decline, which she labeled "not considerable," is most likely due to employee attrition as the regional center switches to the community mental health center approach.

"Waiting For Court" "We're not pushing for membership now. We're waiting for the court to rule on our requests for elections," she said. Linville Prall, executive secretary of NAPE, concurred, saying that dissatisfaction with labor organizations is relatively minor.

He, too, attributed the declines to attrition. Many state employees, he said, are deciding, "I've had my fill of state government."

He predicted the membership totals would turn around, since NAPE is currently on a membership drive.

Kimball County 'Band Day' Set

Kimball (AP) — This Sunday has been proclaimed "Band Appreciation Day" here to honor the Kimball County High School Band, which will leave Monday for a Canadian appearance at the "Calgary Stampede."

The observance here will be highlighted by a parade and a short concert.

The 105-member band has worked for the past nine months to raise the $15,000 necessary to make the trip.

While in Canada, the band will be vying with 196 other bands from the U.S. and Canada in five different categories of competition.

South-Central Health Center Gets $500,000

Hastings (AP) — The South-Central Nebraska Community Health Center here received a check for more than $500,000 Tuesday from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The money represents the facility's operational budget for programming during the next year and is part of an eight-year federal grant totaling more than $3.5 million.

Jim Taylor, acting assistant director of the program here, said the money received Tuesday will be used to begin hiring staff members.

He said community mental health centers in Kearney, Holdrege, Franklin and Superior should be ready to go in three to six months.

The center here is already in operation.

Quigley Appointed To Highway Position

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday appointed William Byron Quigley of Valentine to fill the Nebraska Highway Commission seat of the late Thane Davis.

A 1971 graduate of the University of Nebraska Law School, Quigley, 32, has spent his life in Cherry County.

Exon said Quigley was expected to the sworn in at a commission meeting Friday.

Hiram Scott Dormitories Will Be Veterans' Home

Gov. J. James Exon announced Tuesday that the dormitory facilities at Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff would be converted to a western Nebraska home for veterans.

The state was the only bidder on the facilities, which were placed on auction Saturday.

The state offered $320,000 for the facilities.

Court approval of the bid is expected in early July.

School Reorganization Panel OKs 4 Petitions

By United Press International The state committee for school district reorganization Tuesday announced approval of four petition plans and rejection of another four.

The petition plans approved, by county, included:

Douglas — Dissolve Class I District 32 and attach a portion to Class V District No. 1 (Omaha) and also attach a portion to Class III District 3 (Ft. Calhoun).
Valley — Attach Class I District 45 to Class III District 5 (Ord).
Perkins — Merge a portion of Class II District 112 with Class I District 33 and Class VI District 74.
Sheridan — Merge all of Class I District 79 with Class I District 129.

Holt — Dissolve Class I District 226 and attach to Class I District 233.

Omaha Is Falling Behind In Cutting Weeds On Lots

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. George Gatzmeyer of Omaha doesn't like 7½ foot weeds on vacant lots on either side of her house and she's letting the city of Omaha know about her displeasure.

However, she says, "every year they say they'll send somebody out, but nobody ever comes."

The city receives about 100 complaints a day about weeds growing taller than the 24 inches allowed by city ordinance and Sam Bonaiuto says the city is cutting the weeds as quickly as possible. 1700 complaints are pending, said Bonaiuto, who is in charge of cutting operations. So far this year there have been about 3,500 complaints, Bonaiuto said. Crews have cut the weeds on about 2,100 lots, including some about which no complaint has been made, he said.

The city sends a bill to the property owner for cutting the weeds. As a result of City Council action earlier this year, the bills are about four times as high as last year, Bonaiuto said. The average bill is now about $51, including a $15 penalty for the property owner's failure to cut the weeds, he said.

Measure Eyed To Produce More Veterinarians

By United Press International

Sen. John De Camp of Neligh said Tuesday afternoon research shows there's an immediate need for more veterinarians in Nebraska and he plans to have legislation ready next January designed to produce them.

"My data shows we are definitely going to have to make immediate arrangements to get more Nebraska students into veterinary medicine schools," De Camp told United Press International.

Earlier, De Camp suggested the State Office Building project in Lincoln be scrapped and the money be used to build a school in Nebraska.

Tuesday morning, Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan suggested a multi-state approach be taken to the problem of building and financing a school and he also suggested the use of Hiram Scott College at Scottsbluff as the site.

Far From Reality

De Camp said the multi-state effort — North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska — has merit. But he said the idea is six to 15 years away from reality.

Instead, the Neligh lawmaker said he plans to introduce legislation which would allow the state to increase the payments made to other states which have schools and to enter into contracts so more Nebraskans would be accepted.

"If we can work something like this out it would be far more economical than building a school," he said.

Both De Camp and Maresh are scheduled to appear before the Legislature's Agriculture Committee Wednesday to discuss their plans in detail.

De Camp said he has given up on scrapping the State Office Building. But he said he still believes he was right in suggesting that it should be scrapped.

Property Tax Hike

He contended property taxes for Lincoln residents will increase by 3% because of the office building. He also said he believes costs will exceed the $20 million top figure approved by the Legislature.

If Nebraska built its own veterinary medicine school, De Camp and Maresh agreed the cost would range from $23 million to $50 million for an 80-student facility.

Currently there are 19 schools in the nation accepting 1,612 students a year and two new ones are scheduled to begin accepting students in 1976. Those two are Louisiana State and Florida and De Camp said a number are thinking about building schools.

However, De Camp said nearly all of the schools now operating are willing to expand to allow more room for students from other states if agreements could be reached on finances.

Under existing arrangements, Nebraska pays Oklahoma State $7,340 a year per Nebraska student and Kansas State receives $4,000 a year.

Actual Costs Higher

But De Camp said the payments don't come close to actual costs and as a result only 16 out of 150 qualified Nebraska applicants were accepted last year.

The senator said the legislation he plans to introduce would allow for agreements with other states in the $15,000 to $20,000 a year per student range. He said he also wants to establish incentives for Nebraskans to return to their home state once they get their degrees.

According to his research, De Camp said only 40% of the students from Nebraska ever return as working veterinarians.

As to how Nebraska's veterinarians feel about the situation, De Camp said he has contacted every one of them by telephone and 90% said something should be done now rather than waiting until a school could be built.

Evenly Split

As to whether the veterinarians want a school in Nebraska, the senator said they were about evenly split.

As to veterinary needs, De Camp said there are now 29,000 in the nation. However, he said estimated needs call for 38,000 and he added by 1985 that is expected to increase by 52%.

In Nebraska, he said the eastern portion is short while the western portion seems okay.

There are 12 counties, he said, which don't have a veterinarian. They are Keya Paha, Loup, Blaine, Wheeler, McPherson, Perkins, Hayes, Hitchcock, Sioux, Banner, Hooker and Logan.

Twilight Beef Day Planned At Mead

Mead — Tours of current research projects will be featured by the University of Nebraska Department of Animal Science at a Twilight Beef Day July 16 at the NU Field Laboratory near Mead. According to Paul Guyer, NU Extension livestock specialist, the program will run from 5-9 p.m. Tours of beef research in progress will each take about one hour and will include a walking tour of the following projects: beef growing and finishing studies, confinement feeding, and waste management control. A vehicle tour will include reproductive physiology studies, cow management studies, and warm and cool season pasture management studies.

Winter To Manage McCook Chamber

McCook — Gary Winter, music instructor at McCook Junior High School the past eight years, has been named manager of the McCook Chamber of Commerce. Winter, 32, will start his new duties effective July 1. He was graduated from Chadron State College.

Service Station Robbery Probed

Grand Island (UPI) — Officers from the Hall County sheriff's office and the Nebraska State Patrol are investigating a Tuesday morning robbery south of here. Officers said an armed bandit wearing a nylon stocking mask held up the Holiday DX service station at the Interstate 80 and U.S. 281 interchange. He reportedly got away with some $350.

League Of POWs And MIAs To Meet

Omaha (AP) — Some 700 persons are expected Friday for the four-day meeting of the National League of POWs and MIAs. The meeting will consider a number of problems confronting the organization, including obtaining more information about servicemen unaccounted for in Vietnam. The organization's membership includes families of about 1,150 of the 1,300 men unaccounted for.

Piano Workshop Set For Wayne State

Wayne — A one-week workshop in piano literature and materials will be offered at Wayne State College July 8-12, directed by James Day, associate professor of music at WSC. The workshop is intended for college piano students, music educators and keyboard teachers.

Uptrend Continues At Omaha Yards

Omaha — Again in May, the Omaha market showed good gains over receipts for the same month a year ago. Cattle and calves were up 11.3%, hogs up 3.9% and sheep up 17.2%. Total receipts of all livestock at Omaha during were up more than 20,000 head, or essentially 10% ahead of last May. This puts Omaha over 75,000 head ahead of last year's totals for the first five months, according to a spokesman of the Union Stock Yards Company of Omaha.

Explosion, Blaze Damages NU Lab

An explosion and fire at Lyman Hall on the University of Nebraska — Lincoln campus early Tuesday morning caused an estimated $20,000 to $25,000 worth of damage, according to UNL officials.

Most of the damage was confined to a laboratory used by pharmacy students in the building, although two adjoining rooms sustained slight damage, according to campus police. There were no injuries.

Ether Fumes
The explosion was attributed to the ignition of ether fumes from an open container in a refrigerator when the refrigerator motor started, according to the State Fire Marshal's Office.

The second and third floors of the hall were sealed off most of the morning while the incident was being investigated by the State Fire Marshal's Office and the State Patrol.

Repairs By Fall
A member of the university's Physical Plant Department estimated the rooms would be repaired in time for classes in the fall semester.

Some research, but no summer classes, will be disrupted, he said.

The university, like many large institutions, is self-insured, according to UNL Insurance Officer Roy Loudon.

Settlement Is Offered For House In Shootout
Omaha (AP) — The City of Omaha has offered a $13,642 settlement to the owners of a house destroyed by fire June 6 after a shootout between police and a sniper.

Robert Armstrong, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said Mr. and Mrs. Harry Owens would receive another $8,000 from insurance.

The insurance would cover part of the $15,950 cost of another house and the balance of $7,950 would be paid by the city, Armstrong said.

He said the Owens had not as yet accepted the offer.

In addition to the house, other items covered in the proposed settlement include furniture and personal possessions, demolition of the destroyed house, room and board for the Owens and one of their tenants for 30 days, attorney fees and damage to an automobile.

South Central Elevators Get 1st Trickle Of Wheat

By The Associated Press

Wheat has begun to trickle into some elevators in the southern tier of Nebraska counties Tuesday.

Given a few days of warm, clear weather, elevator men generally expected the harvest to pick up by week's end, possibly being in full swing.

An exception was the Co-Op Equity Exchange at Alma, which had received 85,000 bushels of wheat, some 38,500 bushels of it on Monday.

'Very Good, Very Dry'

J. A. Van Butsel, manager, called the wheat, "very good and very dry. Moisture content has run as low as 7.95% and averages 12.4%."

"It is the driest wheat since I came here in 1961," he said. "The yields are better than anticipated, running 40 to 50 bushels per acre. There even was 40 bushels on a plow back field. The test weight has averaged 62 pounds."

Van Butsel said "the disease and drought forecast did not develop and the crop is much better than expected. The farmers are smiling."

Erv Cramer, manager of Cramer-Cooper Elevator at Beatrice, said he had talked to farmers who planned to hold wheat until it reached $5 a bushel, as there is plenty of storage space on farms.

$4.66 To $4.69 Price

He said some also mentioned holding until it reached $6 a bushel. No. 1 hard ordinary wheat brought $4.66 to $4.69 at Omaha Monday.

LeRoy Fortner, manager of the McCook Equity Elevator, said combining was by farmers who owned machines. Custom combines Tuesday were still about 100 miles south.

Some 25-bushel yields has been reported at McCook. The wheat was good, he said, but still wet, with harvested grain ranging from 13% to 15% moisture content.

Bob Malleck, manager of the Nebraska-Kansas-Colorado Grain Co. at McCook, said "there has been a little wheat so far and it is of good quality. The average harvest so far is about 20 bushels per acre."

Dry Conditions

Roland Finkner, manager of the Farmers Union Co-Op Elevator at Pawnee City, mentioned dry conditions, noting that the wheat moisture content had dropped on some harvested wheat from 16% to 11%.

Dale Wilson, manager of the Farmers Co-Op at Beatrice, said 30,000 bushels had come in and it "is in pretty good shape. Yields are running 33 to 52 bushels" per acre.

The weight was running 57 to 63 pounds per bushel, but mostly 60 to 63 per bushel and the moisture content was about 14%, Wilson said.

The Farmers Union Elevator at Superior was receiving "a little bit of wheat Tuesday, but it is just too wet," said Bob Jamtgaard, manager.

19% Moisture Content

He said the wheat was running about 19% moisture content and called it good wheat. Jamtgaard said he had no yield figures on wheat received.

Glen Andres, manager of the Farmers Union Elevator at Fairbury, said the harvest was just getting started, calling it "spotty in fields where farmers find it dry enough to combine."

Andres said some fields were running 40 bushels per acre, with a 60- to 54-pound test weight.

The Frenchman Valley Co-Op at Imperial had received no wheat Tuesday due to wet conditions in the area.

Two Accidents Fatal To Two Youths, Man

By The Associated Press

Two Walthill teenagers were killed Monday night in a tractor-pickup collision and a Hastings man died in a separate one car accident, raising the state's 1974 traffic toll to 160, compared with 185 on this date last year.

The Thurston County Sheriff's Office identified the victims of the pickup-tractor accident as Roger Davis, and Russell Rouse, both 14.

Investigators said they were passengers in a pickup truck driven by Rick Young, 17, also of Walthill.

The pickup was eastbound on a county road about 3½ miles northwest of Walthill when it slammed headon into a west-bound tractor being driven by John Bouchel, 32, of rural Walthill. The accident occurred below the crest of a hill.

Both Davis and Rouse were killed outright, while Bouchel was uninjured and Young was hospitalized in Pender.

Nurses listed Young's condition as good Tuesday afternoon and said he sustained a laceration across his forehead and a possible fracture of the right kneecap.

Meanwhile, the State Patrol said Richard D. Hays, 44, of Hastings was killed in a one-car accident on U.S. 6 near Inland. The report said Hays' westbound auto apparently went out of control, rolled and struck a tree.

Hays was alone in his car when the mishap occurred, according to investigators.

Famine Concerts Set
United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Three benefit rock concerts for African famine relief will be held in August, the United Nations mission to the United Nations announced.

Truck, Steer Accident Kills Nebraska Man

Greensburg, Kan. (AP) — A Holdrege, Neb., man was killed when his truck slammed into a Black Angus steer on U.S. 193 and skidded into a utility pole eight miles south of this southern Kansas town, the highway patrol said.

Killed in the accident Monday night was Dave R. Cuyper, 22. Sue M. Beaudette, 16, of Holdrege, a passenger in the truck, was treated at Kiowa County Hospital here for minor injuries and released.

Girl's Mother Packs Gun At Work

Kearney (AP) — Eight-year-old Debbie Cash is something of a celebrity in her fourth grade class at Emerson School here. Her mother earns her living carrying a revolver.

Debbie's mother is Pat Cash, the first woman police officer in Kearney. She is nearing the end of her fifth month with the city's 29-person police force and in that time has faced a drawn gun and graduated to driving a patrol car alone.

She became interested in police work when she completed a paper on policewomen during her senior year in high school nine years ago. In 1965 though, it was only a passing thought and Kearney may not have been ready for a female police officer then.

"The idea of joining this force occurred to me about four years ago but I didn't do anything about it. I didn't feel the time was right then," she said.

A year and a half ago she took a job with a local personnel placement agency and approached a member of the civil service commission about joining the police force shortly before the first of the year.

After passing a physical examination, written civil service test and oral examination, she was employed to fill one of three vacancies.

During her first few weeks on the force, five-foot-seven inch, 128 pound Pat Cash learned that police work wasn't all routine. Along with other officers she participated in the arrest of a drug suspect and was met with a drawn gun.

It wasn't used that time but Mrs. Cash accepts the possibility of violent confrontation.

"It's part of the work," she said. "Those things happen so fast and you don't really get scared until later in the coffee room when you really think about it."

Ken and Pat Cash have two children. Their other child is five-year-old Michael, who will start kindergarten this fall.

"I've brought both children down to the station and they understand what a police officer is and what their mother is doing."

Mrs. Cash received normal training for a Kearney police officer, spending her first few weeks on 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. patrol, becoming acquainted with the job.

She then attended the Law Enforcement Training Academy at Grand Island, qualifying in firearms during the six-week course.

Upon her return from Grand Island she began working different shifts so that her hours vary from month-to-month.

Asst. Chief Harry Behn said Mrs. Cash is treated no differently than any other police officer and her frequent partner Morry Abshier said "she can do anything the rest of us do."

Pat Cash said she didn't join the police force simply to break a new female barrier. "I intend to make law enforcement my life's work."

PAT CASH . . . prepares for patrol duty.

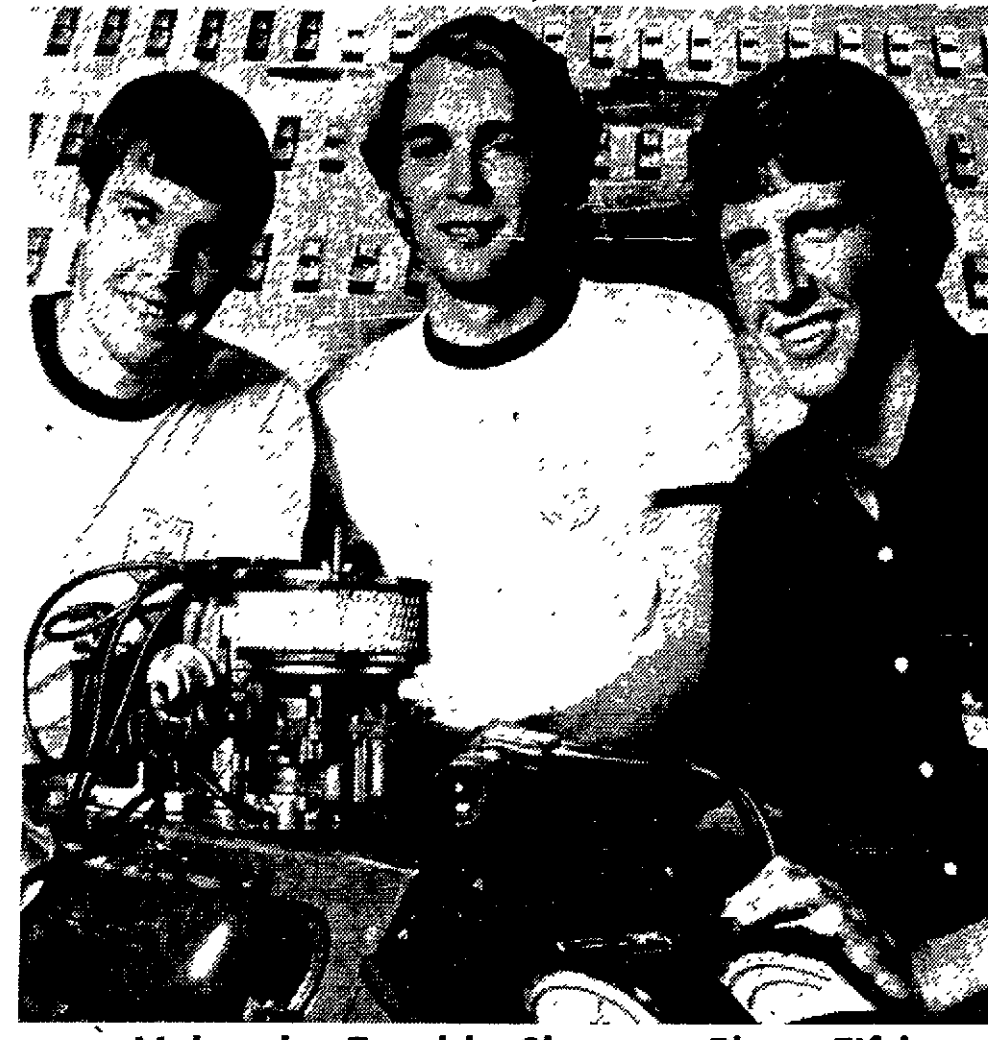

"I may not be always be a street cop," she acknowledged, "but I'm certainly planning to stay in law enforcement. The work has been everything I thought it would be."

What about the family attitude toward her job? "My family has accepted it too. We talked it over before I applied and everything has worked out with them," he said.

Her father is proud of what she is doing, although her mother views the situation with less enthusiasm, she acknowledged.

"My mother worries sometimes and threatens to call the chief,"

Nebraska Trouble Shooters Place Fifth

structor, Ron Johnson, 5110 Spruce St., Lincoln, all representing Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College at Milford. A team from the School of Technical Careers of Southern Illinois University at Carbon-dale, Ill., walked off with top honors.

Delay On Awarding Contract On Superior St. Bridge OKd

By GERRY SWITZER

Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County commissioners, at the request of County Engineer Walter Hoppe, deferred for one week the awarding of a contract for construction of a new bridge across Salt Creek on Superior St.

Apparent low bidder on the project, according to bids opened Tuesday, was Capital Bridge with a bid of $488,690.60.

The only other bidder was Western Plains Construction, which submitted a bid of $524,283.21.

Wants To Study Bids
Hoppe asked for the delay in order to study the bids with the specifications.

The commissioners Tuesday also authorized Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR)

Director Bob Smith to allocate up to a maximum of $30,000 of the 1973-74 budget funds for the purchase of air conditioning equipment for LOMR's hotels in Lincoln and Air Park West.

Smith told the board that several of the used window units which had been purchased for the hotels gave out last week during the record-breaking high temperatures.

54 Units Needed

He said approximately 54 window units of varying sizes would be needed for the 10 hotels plus a considerable amount of electrical work would be necessary.

Smith said that LOMR has sufficient funds remaining in this year's budget to pay for the air conditioning.

The board also authorized LOMR to negotiate with the property owner for a six-month lease on property at 727 S. 11th for workshop space for LOMR.

Workshop Space

It was noted that the razing this week of garages to make way for the new Juvenile Attention Center necessitated LOMR's finding other quarters for workshop space.

In other action, the board:

—Passed a resolution for an interlocal cooperation agreement and Goals and Policies Committee.

—Approved the application for a subdivision permit sought by Wallace Wunderlich.

—Approved the request for renewal of an amusement license for Billy & Grace's Place in Princeton.

—Approved the third party agreement with the Division of Rehabilitation Services for the Lancaster County Private Mental Health Program.

—Approved the recommendations for a risk management program for Lancaster County.

—Approved making grant applications for additional law clerks for county attorney and public defender's offices.

—Delayed one week action on a request to cross county roads with a crop dusting project.

—Referred to the County Engineer the request by Holland residents for speed limit changes.

PTA Backs State School Aid Bill

The Nebraska Parent Teacher Association (PTA) board of managers Tuesday unanimously passed a resolution supporting the 1974 Legislature's passage of the state aid to schools bill.

The board resolution further opposed the referendum drive to place the bill, LB772, on the November general election ballot.

LB772 would shift the tax burden from the property tax to the state sales and income taxes by 1976, increasing aid to schools from the present $55 million a year to more than $150 million a year.

Paul Toms of York, Nebraska PTA executive committee member and state life membership chairman, said, "We've been working long and hard with other state agencies to get a comprehensive state aid (to schools) bill passed."

Budget Planned

The PTA board of managers Tuesday concluded a two-day meeting in Lincoln, preparing a 1974-75 tentative budget of about $21,000 with anticipated income of about $16,000, said Toms, assistant superintendent of the York Schools.

"One of the major problems" causing a deficit budget the past three to four years, Toms said,

"is decreasing membership."

He said the Nebraska PTA membership dropped from 40,000 to 38,000 this year, while the roles nationally dropped from 8 million to 7.5 million.

"Involvement and participation in organizations like this are in competition with a lot of other activities," Toms said, and speculated that "there is a certain amount of apathy."

The board decided to present to the state PTA convention in Lincoln Sept. 20-21 a proposal to increase dues from 50 cents to $1 in 1975-76.

Only Income Source

The dues — Nebraska PTA's only source of income — would double the current 40 cents to the state association and the 10 cents to national and "would increase the amount of services provided from the state PTA to local units," Toms said.

'I'm Sorry, That Number Is Non-published'

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

If you are faced with an emergency, it is no use trying to call Sheriff Merle Karnopp at his home, because his telephone number is available only to his office staff, close friends and relatives.

Karnopp is one of hundreds of Lincoln residents, who for varying reasons have unlisted or non-published numbers.

"Everyone who should have it (his telephone number), has it," Karnopp noted.

In view of his profession, Karnopp requires a non-published number "because I don't want those crazy, drunk, anonymous calls all night long."

"Sometimes people will call up and use profane language on the telephone or they call three or four times and not answer."

"I leave strict orders with the people in my office that if someone calls and says 'I must speak with the Sheriff,' they should take his name and phone number and tell him that I'll return his call," continued Karnopp, who has had a non-published number for 24 years.

According to a spokesman for the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company (LT&T), there are a number of reasons persons request unlisted or non-published numbers — recent divorces, bill collectors and annoyance calls, to name a few.

"It all boils down to privacy — personal privacy," the LT&T agent explained.

Such is the case with the Steve Kalba family, which has had a non-published number for the last one and a half years.

"We weren't abnormally bothered by telephone solicitation, but we got it so we would not be bothered," Kalba related.

"My husband, who is a tax collector, wanted an unlisted number because he didn't want people bothering him after he had talked to them," said one woman who wished to remain unnamed.

"There is one disadvantage though," she added, citing an example. "Once my nephew, who was based in Ft. Riley, Kan., came to visit us. His mother tried to get ahold of us, but couldn't get the number from the operator. So she had to call my father in Council Bluffs, Iowa, to get our number."

"After that we changed from a non-published to an unlisted number, so the operator would have it."

LT&T personnel explained that an unlisted number cannot be found in the directory, but can be obtained by calling directory assistance.

However, with a non-published number, in all but a very, very few cases, even the operator cannot give out the number to those requesting it.

"The person with the non-published number wants privacy in that he limits the number to only the people he gives it to," a telephone company spokesman explained.

"If the caller requests the number, he will not get the number itself," he continued. "The person who ordered the phone made the decision that he did not want anyone to have the number under any circumstance."

"In the case of an emergency, the chief operator takes over the call from the regular operator," he said. "She determines how serious the person is and tells the caller she will get in contact with the person and ask him if he wants to be in contact with the person who is calling."

"If that person says yes, then she'll connect the call, but not give out the number."

"It is not our decision," he emphasized. "It is the decision of the party."

He added that, although most telephone companies charge additional fees for the added service, Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph does not.

However, the agency does not encourage the use of unlisted or non-published numbers, even though the number of special listings is a relatively small percentage of the total in the Lincoln area.

"Some people do have legitimate reasons for the numbers," he said, "and I don't think the service is abused that much."

"But with approximately 80,000 listings in Lincoln alone, when you deviate from the standard procedure with only about 10% of that number, it creates more work."

Their's Is Untypical Story Of Love

Sherman, Tex. (UPI) — Cindy Ann Inman and James Lewis Rice met in high school five years ago and fell in love.

They were married on June 7 in a double-ring church ceremony.

Theirs is not a typical love story. They firmly believe they are typical 20-year-old newlyweds. But they are not.

Cindy, whose curly blonde hair falls below her shoulders, wears her wedding band on a chain that hangs around her neck. She was born in 1953 without arms or legs.

"We're living with my parents until our apartment's ready," Cindy said. "It was a garage and we're turning it into an apartment. It will be ready soon now."

The apartment will look like all other apartments, except it will be a bit more roomy than most and will have no steps.

"We are doing just fine," her husband said. "We don't envision any problems at all adjusting to married life."

James pushed his wife's wheelchair down the church aisle after they were married. But Cindy has learned to help herself — she moves around by a scooting method she has developed over the years.

James works as an apprentice in the electrical contracting business owned by Cindy's father. And she has turned her hobby of collecting glass into a small curio shop next door.

Cindy said if any housekeeping problems arise, she will deal with them at the time.

"I don't see any reason to worry about them in advance," she said.

Cindy has worked every day to lead as normal life as possible. She has been featured in publicity in the Sherman Easter Seal Center for Crippled Children and once represented the Easter Seal Society in New York.

Mrs. Floyd Inman, Cindy's mother, said much of her daughter's healthy outlook on life was due to her being treated like a normal child, including spankings when needed.

Cindy and James graduated from Sherman High School in 1972 and since, she has been attending Grayson County College and expects to finish next year.

"My antique shop started about five years ago," Cindy said. "It was more or less a hobby, and it still is. We started going to flea markets and I got to collecting so much of the little glassware that we ran out of a place to store it. We put it in the attic for a time, but the ceiling began to sag."

"So we decided I ought to open up the little store and that's what we did," Cindy's aunt helps with the shop.

Cindy and James said they don't want or need any sympathy, and Cindy wasn't sure they wanted a news story.

"Before I discuss anything, I'd like to talk to my husband," she said. "He's just an ordinary guy and we discuss everything before we do anything. 'We're not used to the limelight.'"

Non-Meat Proteins For Summer Snacks

Fluid and non-fat dry milk make cool shakes with pureed fruits, and that means satisfying snacks or light meals all this summer.

Peanuts, walnuts, and pecans make good eating out-of-hand, crunchy additions to snacks and spreads and some desserts, and you can even throw some in the blender with or without honey or vegetable oil, for quick fresh spreads.

The new crop of wheat is expected to be higher than last year's — so expect to save in your flour purchases, extra advantage for home bread bakers. Crunchy, nutty, or fruited breads and cookies can use non-fat milk solids in the recipe too.

Even Dermatologists Don't Like Them

Some people never get any warts, while others may be infected with dozens of them. And it remains a mystery why some people are seemingly immune to them.

Occasionally painful and always ugly, warts are one of the mysteries of medical science.

People try to rub them away with potato slices or apples or stones or shiny quarters.

They apply vinegar or castor oil or aspirin. Some even cover them with an onion, tie threads around them and chant rituals beneath a full moon.

Often, warts just disappear, as if by magic.

And sometimes, people even go to their dermatologist to get the little lumps removed.

What researchers have found out about warts is limited.

Warts are caused by a virus found everywhere in the world. The virus infiltrates the top layer of a person's skin and infects the cells, forcing them to puff out in size and number.

Warts most commonly affect school-age children reaching a peak between 12 and 16 years of age and then declining, and the life span of a wart ranges from six weeks to many years. Warts on children usually disappear within one year (often sooner) while adults may live with the same wart for several years.

Beyond this everything is guesswork, and many aspects of warts remain baffling even to the medical profession.

For example some people never get any warts, while others may be infected with dozens of them. Researchers have yet to solve the mystery of why some people show partial or even complete immunity to warts.

"It's like the cold. Some people seldom get colds," said one Lincoln dermatologist. "I work with warts all day and I don't get them."

The most commonly-held theory is that warts are transmitted from person to person by contact with the virus. Another theory is that the skin has to have a minor crack in the upper layer before the virus can even infect the skin.

And warts seem to have an incubation period averaging about four months.

Another puzzle about warts is their timing and duration. Some people might get warts at age 16 and then never get them again until they're 45.

"A few patients claim they've had a wart their entire life," one Lincoln dermatologist noted, a little skeptically.

And many warts come and go for seemingly no reason. Some folks may give credit to old wives-tale remedies or hocus pocus rituals, but the fact is that a "wart is self lived."

"You name it, it's been used on warts. But 60% of them, no matter what you use, will go away. And if the wart happens to go away after some home remedy, it is purely a coincidence," a local dermatologist said.

But medical science has not completely discounted the theory that the power of suggestion can send warts into a disappearing act.

Jim Batt convinced his then six-year-old son that the old potato routine would work. Several days later he woke his son late at night rubbed the potato on the wart and buried the potato in the ground under a full moon. Within two weeks the boy's wart had disappeared.

Who knows whether the suggestion sent the wart away or whether it had simply run its course. However a 1968 text, "Textbook of Dermatology," says, "The possibility that warts may be influenced by suggestions has not been excluded . . . There are some cases in which formal hypnosis may deserve consideration."

Though warts can affect any part of a person's body, they appear most often on the feet and hands. Why?

Here again, it's all theory; in fact many different theories. Some doctors believe that the moisture of sweaty hands and feet, helps the virus penetrate. One local dermatologist says that since warts are picked up by contact, the most likely place for contact would be the bare feet or hands.

Warts come in all sizes and shapes — anywhere from pinhead size to several inches in diameter. They can occur singly or in bunches.

Once local doctor says he has seen plantar warts (so called because of their location on the plantar or sole of the foot) 3 1/2 inches across.

And though most people will have only one or two warts, some people, particularly children have come to local dermatologists with 50 or 60 warts. Since a wart is contagious, it can be spread to other parts of the body by scratching or picking, a Lincoln doctor warned.

Warts, particularly the more painful plantar warts, "can cause a lot of grief and there is no easy way to get rid of them," said a local dermatologist.

A physician will remove the wart by anesthetizing it and cutting it off with scissors, by burning it out with an electric needle, by freezing it out with liquid nitrogen or by treating it with a chemical acid.

For some types of facial warts, some dermatologists use a drying lotion, to avoid any possible scarring.

Aside from ugliness or pressure pain, almost all warts produce no other complications. But that doesn't mean they should all be treated lightly, said the local dermatologists.

They warn that — one wart can give you many.

— areas particularly vulnerable to the spread of warts are the beard of men and the legs of women where the razor seems to spread warts more easily.

— Venereal warts, which can be spread by sexual contact, are very difficult to treat, particularly in women.

— the larger a wart gets, the harder it is to remove.

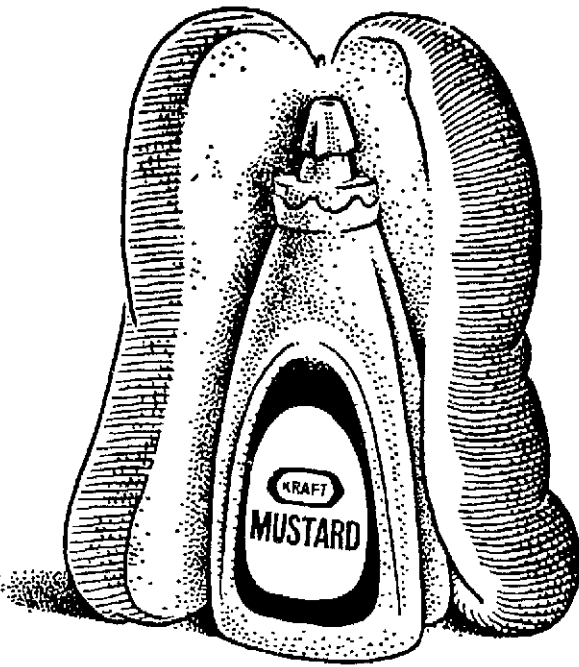

One final word. There seems to be no way to avoid the wart virus. It can be picked up anywhere. And scientists have found nothing which can make a person immune to warts.

The dermatologists, who did not want to be named fearing that their telephones would be buzzing with wart victims wanting appointments, agree with the wart sufferers, saying, "I wish they weren't around."

Warts are most likely to occur on hands and feet.

FTC Chairman Hits Children's Ads

Chairman Lewis Engman says he is not satisfied with progress by the advertising industry to change approaches in advertising for children's television programs.

Engman has told a senate committee that the voluntary approach that has been tried has not worked and the FTC is prepared, if it has to, to invoke restraints.

The FTC has been concerned, as the result of complaints, that advertising on children's programs has, in many cases, been aimed at using children to get their parents to buy products.

It's Great To Be Back

write Today's "Write On" contributor, a resident of Lincoln, is married and the mother of four sons, ranging in age from seven to 17 years.

By CAROLYN CAMORIANO

The gas station attendant shook his head as he stared at our license plate. "You mean you're moving back to Nebraska from California? You've got to be kidding!"

This typical reaction had followed our March decision to leave Los Angeles and return to Lincoln after an absence of five years. Everyone there — our neighbors, moving agent, milkman, and even the garbage man — couldn't believe we would give up the "sunkist" life. And Nebraskans who had been envious of our move to California questioned our sanity in leaving the lovely warm climate and the magic of Disneyland for a wind-chilled prairie town called Lincoln.

We've been here almost a year and we're still glad we came back. We like Nebraska, and specifically, Lincoln because:

Lincoln lets you raise a family in an atmosphere of freedom. That freedom is the wide-open spaces and unfenced yards — in treehouses and forts and cowboy and Indian games. And less worry for the children's safety, when they are out at night.

You can breathe the crisp clean air and see the glory of a Nebraska sunset. You don't check the air pollution level to find out if your children will be allowed outdoor exercise at school each day.

You can revel in the variety of changing season. Glorious autumn foliage — the first frost on the trees — spring bulbs and the scent of lilacs on a warm spring night — all are to be savored. True, the tempo of living may be slowed by a roaring blizzard, but a bland climate is monotonous.

There is a feeling of permanence here. So many of our friends were still here to welcome us back, it's as though we might never have been away. Our teenagers have the security of old chums from kindergarten days, as well as new ones. And new neighbors in Nebraska are like old friends already, initiating us with a block party and many coffees.

Nebraskans seem to have a deep concern for nature. Driving through Pioneer's Park, I am reminded what beauty can be created and maintained when people care about their environment.

There is a feeling of friendliness here, even among strangers. Where else would one be notified personally that his plane was delayed so he need not come to the airport so early!

All of this adds up to the fact that we're proud to be back in Nebraska again and to be part of the "good life."

The bidding:

2♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass

Opening lead - king of clubs.

This deal occurred in the 1964 World Bridge Olympiad in the match between Switzerland and the United States. When the Swiss were North-South, the bidding went as shown and West (Arthur Robinson, playing with Robert Jordan) led the king of clubs.

The hand was played on Bridge-O-Rama, and the huge audience—seeing all 52 cards on the giant electronic screen—wondered whether the young American pair would find the perfect defense required to beat the contract.

The commentators were openly skeptical about the American pair's chances, but they backed up a little when Jordan got the defense off on the right foot by playing the discouraging three on West's king of clubs, instead of the eight to show a doubleton.

Robinson dutifully shifted to a heart, which went to the ace. Jordan returned the eight of clubs, won by Robinson with the ace.

When Robinson then led another club, even though his partner had not played high-low, the wildly enthusiastic audience could contain itself no longer as they realized that only by this sequence of plays could the contract be defeated. Declarer ruffed the club return with the ten, but Jordan over-eruffed with the jack to inflict a one-trick defeat.

Had Jordan signaled with the eight at trick one, declarer would have made four spades with the ace of clubs continuation at trick two. A third club lead by West would have been futile, for declarer would have discarded dummy's singleton heart on it.

The hand is a wonderful illustration of how a first-class pair, working in unison, can overcome the natural difficulties of defense. Declarer had to pay off to the deadly defense that left nothing to chance.

New Lid Design USDA Requests

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced a change in regulations that will require lids of glass jars containing meat and poultry products to be designed to prevent the possibility of any dirt or insects entering the jar. The change becomes effective December 10, 1975.

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said numerous consumer complaints have been received concerning the quick-twist, screw-on, and snap-on-type lids on containers of meat food products.

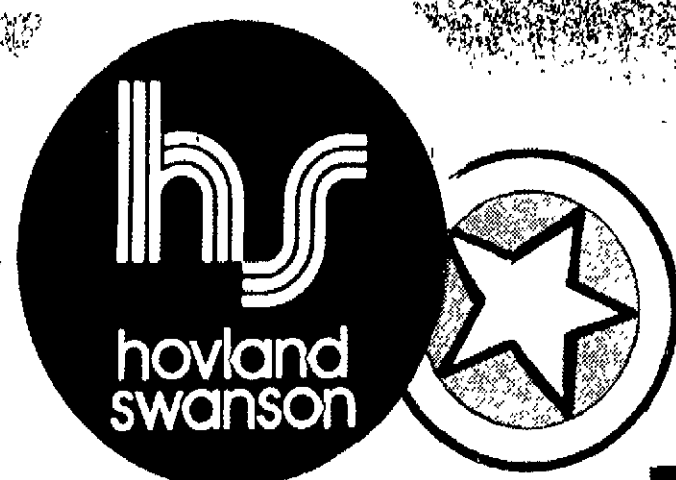

APHIS officials said that because of the space that exists between the inner edge of the lid's rim and the container itself, dirt and insects sometimes collect inside the lip of the jar lid. When the jar is opened and the vacuum seal is broken, the in-rushing air may carry the dirt or insects into the jar.

Now, jar lids must be designed so that foreign matter cannot get to the inner part of the lid. This can be done by eliminating the space between the lid and the container, or by placing a seal over the space.

APHIS officials said that they first proposed the jar lid modification in mid-1973 (USDA press release 2229-73). The majority of the comments received since then have favored the proposal.

Copies of the amendment, to be published in the June 10 Federal Register, are available from APHIS, Room 1166-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a letter to Dear Abby! Wow, what a corny trip! I know you're not "God," but you say a lot in a few words and your answers make sense, so here goes:

I'm a 34-year-old married woman with two kids and a million problems. The biggest is my marriage. It's going downhill fast.

My husband and I fight all the time. We've got money problems, in-law problems, he says I'm a lousy housekeeper and he's right, and I say he spends too much time with "the boys" and not enough with me and the kids (He's a sports freak). We can't even discuss our problems without ending up in a fight. The only thing we've got going for us is sex. That's terrific, but you can't stay in bed all the time.

Don't tell me we need "counseling." He'd never go. And I can't afford a shrink, so forget that.

DEAR MIS.: The answer I have for you, you won't like. You need professional counseling. (Friends are a waste of time. They tell you only what they think you want to hear.)

You say your husband won't go? Well, go alone. If you learn how to handle your husband, you will know more than you know now. And with luck, you can get him to go later.

If you need a shrink and can't afford one, your Family Service or Welfare Department can provide that at a price you CAN afford. Now get going, and let me hear from you in 30 days.

DEAR ABBY: I was a very happily married woman until I went to this mind reader. She told me that my husband was on drugs and also that he was unfaithful to me.

I asked my husband about this and he denied it. I want to believe my husband because we have two kids, and I don't want to break up my marriage.

You Should Go Without Him

Abby, why would that mind reader say something like that if it wasn't true?

I don't know what to believe. Can you help me?

DEAR MESSED UP: I'd believe my husband. I would also stay away from "mind readers."

DEAR ABBY: Tell me something. Do I have a right to complain? We've been married for 14 years, and for the last ten years my husband has taken a 10-day skunk vacation without me. I couldn't go because I had no one to leave the kids with. I took one vacation without my husband five years ago. I went to Florida for a week to visit my folks, and I took my kids with me. Some vacation!

My husband says: "Just because YOU have to stay home doesn't mean I have to."

ANGRY

DEAR ANGRY: You made your first mistake when you stayed home with the kids while hubby took to the slopes. They're his kids too, aren't they? The squeaking wheel gets the grease, so give him three choices: (1) The whole family takes a vacation together—kids included. (2) You and hubby vacation together and farm the kids out. (3) You and hubby vacation together, and hire somebody to stay with the kids.

DEAR ABBY: About the wife who wrote that her husband was having an affair with a young teacher. (She was a minister's daughter he had met in church.) The wife asked you if she should tell the girl's father, and you told her not to.

Thanks for advising her not to tell Dad. I don't want her husband for keeps. I just want to borrow a little of what she doesn't want. (She says their marital relations are not enjoyable to her.)

I'll be leaving town soon. Maybe this experience will jolt that wife enough so she will at least try to love her husband. He certainly needs it.

It's positively stupid for any wife to leave her husband vulnerable to an affair when it's so easy to please a man.

DORA

DEAR DORA: Dumb, you're not!

Boots Are Back In Style

SPECIAL TO THE STAR

New York — Look, everyone in our midwestern state, these things we wear in the winter — and which we don't worry about going out of style — have returned to the couture fashion line-up for fall and winter. What are they? Boots, of course.

But they aren't like the boots we hold over from one season to another. They are boots that are without shape or form. Away with the zip boot that, though a necessity for the cold temperatures of our country, were passe for a couple of seasons. Of course, we never thought so. And it's a sure bet that those who have several different kinds of boots in their closets will keep wearing them. Fashions designers just aren't realistic when they say this year ban the boot; the next, the boot — in a different shape of course — is fashion.

One young man from Cincinnati, here reporting fashions, in a cynical remark said, "I hope I never see another zip boot." However, there were zip boots shown with the regular press showings in the couture designs. And to all those who have boots — and who in Lincoln hasn't had boots of every description — that though boots are back in high fashion, Nebraskans know a good thing when we see it. And we will wear zip boots, stretch boots; and if we need to purchase a new pair to keep the weather from touching our tootsies, the new boots which have no fit, nor line but are pull-on-boots. They'll do fine in cold weather just as the boots Nebraskans have worn since the button galoshes.

The Wacs has a new division called Wacs Works. It is a less expensive line than its present company because many of the clothes are done in man-made instead of natural fibers, the commentator said. The first suit on the runway was natural navy suit with the slightly longer skirt.

The second suit however had such a big jacket and long skirt that it might be described as "The Big Droop." A hooded acrylic cashmere looked very much like the real thing. The back was gathered from the yoke to give a very full look and the larger sleeves were buttoned at the wrist. A green, sash-tied coat was completely reversible to white poplin and was worn with very straight pants.

One of the points made by the designer is that the transition from the pants-oriented period is the present skirt-oriented era is that it has been tested by the women who serve as test pilots. The "elegant Americans" are, helping the designers prove that both pants and skirts belong in, and add versatility to, the modern wardrobe, the designer said. Furthermore, the clothes in this line have some long clothes, some short for day wear.

His big wrap in alpaca has a high collar and raglan sleeves. In winter white, it was worn with burgundy hat, dress, hose and shoes.

Geoffrey Beane's showing opened dramatically. A swirling, whirling long gown in which 37 yards of chiffon were used, was first on.

There is quite a change in Beane's design. For the upcoming fall and winter he has left the still high-waisted clothes he once designed, and has loosened them up. This year he feels it has the perfect look. Many of his big coats ripple with fullness from gathering in the yokes in front and back. There often are sable and fox cuffs. Under the coats are short jackets shaped with weskits and worn over dirndl skirts.

There are several color combinations which have clothes that may be worn interchangeably. In the aubergine and wheat group there is a great aubergine coat and a two-piece striped dress.

Another combination is hunter green with rust. As example of this is the two-piece striped dress, worn with green stockings, shoes and hat.

Some of his easy dresses — many gathered at the yoke — have their own shirts and ties. A loden green flannel is trimmed in baby blue. The dresses are belted to pull in the looseness.

One of the most smashing of the big looks was in cavalry twill. The jacket was worn over a very long, full skirt. This outfit is worn with shirt and tie.

Put A Bit More Variety In Summer Cookouts

Put more variety in your outdoor cooking — don't just stick with steaks, hamburgers and hot dogs when you're barbecuing.

"There are many other meat cuts suitable for barbecuing," points out Jim Wise, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension meats specialist. "Some people prefer to marinate or tenderize some of the other cuts, but you can just put these cuts on the grill the same as steak."

Pork and lamb offer tremendous variety, according to Wise. "Pork chops and lamb chops cut three-fourths to one inch thick can be grilled the same as steaks. Pork spare ribs, center cut ham slices, lamb riblets, and beef short ribs are also good for outdoor cooking.

Don't be hampered by the lack of a rotisserie, Wise says.

"Rotisseries and other equipment allow you to do many other cuts, but don't be limited because you have a 'plain' grill. "Rolled, boneless beef rib, rump or sirloin tip roasts; pork loins and rolled Boston butt roasts can be cooked by rolling them on the grill instead of using a rotisserie."

He adds that barbecuing roasts takes longer than oven preparation, usually a total of one-half to three-fourths of an hour longer. Meat thermometers can be used on the barbecue the same as in the oven using the following guide: 140 degrees Fahrenheit internal temperature for rare meat, 160 for medium, and 170 for well done. Meat should be removed from heat when the thermometer registers about five degrees less than desired, since the temperature will continue to rise inside.

As a general rule, Wise suggests that any meat cut which can be prepared by dry heat roasting or broiling is suitable for barbecuing. Any cut which requires braising or moist heat cooking should not be barbecued.

"And if you're looking for a change from hot dogs, try barbecuing Polish sausage, Knackwurst or Bratwurst."

The NU specialist also offered these tips on outdoor meat cookery:

—Use meat tongs. Don't pierce the meat with a fork and allow juices to escape.

—Much of the barbecue flavor comes from fat and juice dripping on the charcoal and creating smoke. If you want to add extra smoke flavor, packaged wood chips are available. The wood chips should be fruit wood, hickory or maple.

—Use a commercial starter rather than gasoline or kerosene. Besides being dangerous, they may impart an oily taste on the meat.

—Don't use too hot a fire. Be patient and allow plenty of time.

For those who are especially ambitious, a bulletin on "The Large Quantity Barbecue" is available for 21 cents (including tax) from county Extension offices, or by writing to the Department of Ag Communications, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska 68503. Requests should include both the title and the publication number, "EC 69-221."

Bullet In Suspect May Be Evidence

New York (UPI) — Two hours after police Lt. Henry Schmiemann, 45, fired his pistol as he lay dying at the robber who had shot him in the head, John Smith, 27, appeared at a Brooklyn hospital with a bullet in his chest. Smith said that he, too, had been shot by a mugger.

But police say Smith is the prime suspect in Schmiemann's murder and investigators say they need the bullet in Smith's chest as evidence in the case.

Legal Dilemma

It has posed an "enormously complicated" legal dilemma for authorities and there was no resolution in sight Tuesday, five days after Schmiemann was killed on a street near his home while walking to work.

Barry Schwartz, assistant district attorney in charge of the case, refuses to discuss the evidence, but says, "I don't know yet if we can get that bullet. There are no precedents on this matter in New York State that I can recall."

Police say that before he was fatally shot in the head, Schmiemann fired his own service revolver at his killer, who fled in a 1968 model sedan.

Smith arrived by taxi at Brooklyn's Wyckoff Heights Hospital with the bullet in his chest, walked in under his own power and asked for treatment.

Wyckoff Heights, like other hospitals in the city, had been alerted to look for anyone who appeared with a gunshot wound and Smith became an immediate suspect.

Doctors at Kings County Hospital, where Smith later was transferred, determined that the bullet posed no threat to Smith's life and its removal was not necessary as far as they were concerned.

Refusal Reported

Smith himself has not officially refused to have the bullet removed, but Homicide Detective Edward Burden of the Queens Borough homicide squad said Tuesday that Smith "privately refused to me to let the doctors get at the bullet."

Police and the Queens district attorney's office said they would not immediately press for the bullet's removal. George Kalkines, general counsel for the city's Health and Hospitals Corp., which runs all municipal hospitals, called the legal issues in the case "enormously complicated."

'DA Must Wait'

"First," he said, "the DA must wait until Smith's doctors determine that the presence of the bullet is creating medical problems — abscesses, excess blood flow, whatever."

"After the doctors determine that the bullet must go out, and assuming Smith doesn't want it removed," Kalkines said, "the DA must first get an overriding medical order to have the bullet removed. Then he must get another writ for search and seizure."

Smith was arraigned in his hospital bed Monday in a separate case, and charged with robbing a woman two weeks ago near where Schmiemann was killed.

SEC Files Suit Accusing NFO Of Fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission sued one of the nation's major farm organizations Tuesday, charging it with fraud in the borrowing of more than $7 million from its members.

The SEC said the National Farmers Organization had borrowed the money under false pretenses, failing to disclose fully its financial condition. The SEC contends that the NFO is insolvent, which the farm group denies.

The suit was filed in federal court in Des Moines, Iowa, and announced in Washington.

NFO spokesmen at its headquarters in Corning, Iowa, said they would have no comment until they had received a copy of the complaint.

The NFO's president, Oren Lee Staley, has suggested in a confidential letter to his members that the SEC's investigation is part of a government move to destroy the farm group.

He noted that former White House Counsel John W. Dean III has testified that the NFO was on the White House "enemies list."

An SEC spokesman denied that the filing of the suit was related to politics. "The charges speak for themselves," the spokesman said. "I don't think it relates at all."

The suit was filed after more than three months of investigation and negotiations, during which the farm group launched an effort to collect several million dollars in back dues from its members as a means of showing that the group is financially sound.

In filing the suit, SEC lawyers brushed aside requests by the farm group for a fuller investigation and for an informal agreement to meet the commission's objections.

The suit alleges that the farm group made false statements about its financial condition and failed to disclose pertinent facts when it issued promissory notes to its members and officers for money borrowed from them.

The charges were brought under the fraud section of federal securities laws.

Cash Box Stolen

About $675 in cash was taken in a burglary at Budget Rent-A-Car, at 1732 O St., police said Tuesday. Police said the burglar or burglars forced open a window, pried open a drawer and removed a metal cash box containing the money.

San Francisco — "Black tie," says the invitation. Not just a tie, mate. We must get out the formal fiddle-and-flute. The dinner squares. Man's finest hour.

The elegant tuxedo is having its 87th birthday. This thing of satin lapels and basic black was man's flight to fashion paradise for many a year.

Wealthy Griswold Lorillard is said to have created the sartorial elegance in 1886 by attending an elegant soiree at Tuxedo Park, N.Y. Hence the name.

Griswold's tailor ran him up a set of threads with shiny lapels and the stripe down the side of the pants. He wore it to the party.

Did all other men rush down and have it copied because it was pretty?

I doubt it. I think they did it because Griswold was mighty rich — one of those Lorillards. They figured if they dressed like Griswold, the golden lightning might strike them too.

These are the warm days of summer so I will wear the robin's egg blue jacket. (Same pair of pants though.)

"Double-breasted Suit Makes Comeback."

That is a line on fashion for our strutting bird of paradise. (The fashion writer goes on to admit they don't expect the double-breasted to break any records. Just come back. Hello, deh!)

One thing about the tuxedo: it allows you to wear jewelry up and down the front of your shirt. Man has little chance to wear jeweled ornaments.

You cannot wear pants alone — say with an odd jacket or sweater. The stripe down the pants leg betrays it.

For the same reason, you cannot wear the jacket in a combo — the lapels (What in the world got into Griswold anyway?)

It must be worn in company of many Tuxedos — the "black tie" dinner.

Well, up with the sun this a.m. and singing like a bird (of paradise). I was singing "Nobody Rambled Like My Rambling Rose" if you press for details.

Since my witchy hairdresser started a hot new styling comb on me, I use a hot air dryer. This makes it look like I'm bucking for a part as a Neanderthal man. Until you look at the back.

My tuxedo is mostly mothballed. Like a World War II battleship. When I wear it, it is strongly scented.

It hangs in its plastic bag, awaiting the call to arms. Body armor when the social flak is flying.

A bird of paradise without a flight plan.

My grandpa wore a solid gold collar button. He wore a solid gold watch chain across his vest. And a solid gold watch with a cover that opened and closed — click, click.

I, myself, wore a silver-washed watch fob with a dollar sign on the end of it.

Today, if you don't even put a watch pocket in pants. Except swimming pants. What for. I do not know. Not for a watch. And it's too small to hold the hotel room key. One of life's mysteries, the watch pocket in the swim pants.

Hopes Dimming For Settlement Of Pro Football Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NFL players and owners resumed contract talks Tuesday with less than a week left to avert a strike and the prospects of settlement gloomy.

The two sides were brought together by federal mediator James Searce for the first time since negotiations broke off angrily on June 13.

The NFL Players Association (NFLPA) has threatened to call a strike Monday if no new contract is signed. Ed Garvey, executive director of the association, said he would not put off the deadline even if progress is made this week.

"I don't think we can let them play the carrot and stick game with us and put off strike action," Garvey said before entering the meeting with the Management Council which represents the owners.

James Thompson, executive director of the owners group, said the Management Council brought several counter proposals to the session.

However almost every one of the multitude of player demands, including a number of so-called "freedom issues," were still unsettled.

The agenda for the Tuesday meeting centered on insurance, pensions, union security and player safety.

Wellington Mara, owner of the New York Giants, who heads the Management Council, said before going into the closed door meeting: "There are still a lot of files in the ointment but we hope that reasonable people can come to some reasonable conclusions."

Searce said he would try to keep both sides talking through Thursday and into the weekend if necessary. Strike action by the players on Monday would have no immediate impact but the NFLPA has completed arrangements for the beginning of preseason camps when they begin to open next month. San Diego's rookies are scheduled to report for workouts on July 3.

The Players Association conducted a campaign to persuade rookies and free agents to boycott the training camps if a strike takes place. Should a prolonged strike come about, the first public event to feel the brunt of the action would be the nationally-televised College AllStar game against the Superbowl champion Miami Dolphins in Chicago on July 26.

Blue Increases Record

In an exhibition for athletes attending the Nebraska Football School Monday, weightlifter Don Blue demonstrated his extraordinary skills by surpassing his own world record in the dead lift event.

Competing in the 148-pound class, Blue earlier this year set the world record with a 625-pound lift. Monday, he unofficially bettered that mark by lifting 631-pounds.

"Don's record isn't official because the proper people were

Expos Blank Phillies, 5-0

By The Associated Press

Steve Renko missed a third bid for a no-hitter Tuesday night, but the Montreal hurler still came away with a one-hitter that gave the Expos a 5-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Renko, who hurled two onehitters in 1971, gave up only a sixth-inning single to Dave Cash while walking five and throwing two wild pitches.

He was supported by Bob Bailey's grand slam home run which highlighted a five-run sixth inning.

In other National League games, the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 5-1, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Houston Astros 3-2, and the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers downed the Baltimore Orioles 2-0, the Texas Rangers beat the Minnesota Twins 7-3, and the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals 10-9 in 12 innings.

Cleveland at New York and Milwaukee at Boston were postponed because of rain.

California was at Oakland, Atlanta was at Los Angeles and San Francisco was at San Diego in games on the West Coast.

Ed Kranepool hit a three-run homer, his first of the season to help Met pitcher Jerry Koonsman defeat Chicago on four hits. Kranepool's second homer in two seasons came in the third inning following a single by Jerry Grote and a walk to Rusty Staub.

Junior Olympics Plans On 'Go'

"Everything is on 'go' for the National AAU Junior Multisports Championships," national chairman Joel Ferrell told Lincoln media representatives at a press conference Tuesday in the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel.

"We are pleased with the facilities and the support the people of Lincoln are giving," Ferrell added as the countdown began for the eighth annual event which will be conducted in Lincoln Aug. 9-12.

The Junior Olympic program is one of the least controversial and more worthy projects of the Amateur Athletic Union, which has been involved in feuding for control of amateur athletics in the United States for so many years the date has been forgotten.

Just say the disputes have been going on for more than 50 years and settlement seems just as far away as ever. In fact, the dispute boiled over just last week on the eve of the National AAU outdoor track and field meet.

Dwight Stones, the world high jump record-holder, says the AAU is costing the U.S. a victory in the American Soviet track meet July 5-6 at Durham, N.C., by refusing travel permits to the Pacific Coast Track Club to compete in Europe.

"All the AAU has to do is lift their travel restrictions against the club," Stones said. "If they do, we'll be there. And if we're there, we'll annihilate the Russians.

But that's neither here nor there as far as the Junior Olympics are concerned. The event is strictly a national affair with no foreign entries. More than 1,200 athletes from ages 13 through 19 will converge on Lincoln for the competition.

National Television Scheduled

The event is of such magnitude that two hours of Sunday Aug. 11 competition will be televised on the CBS Sports Spectacular.

Eight sports will be on the program here. They include track and field, swimming, diving, gymnastics, judo, synchronized swimming, trampoline and wrestling. The program is considered an Olympic development process and the results have been fantastic since the first event was held with just one sport — track and field — back in 1949.

"We're very happy to have the opportunity to stage our championships at the University of Nebraska, Ferrell said. "I'm sure the athletes will be delighted when they see the facilities here." All but the swimming and diving events will be on the NU campus. They will be at Woods Park.

"Steve Williams, the man who tied the world 100-meter dash record last week, is a product of the program," remarked Jerry Dubemell, National AAU Junior Olympics administrator. "So was Wilma Rudolph, Don Schollander, Jim Ryan and Donna DeVorena."

Also on hand for the kickoff luncheon were Pete Cava, AAU associate publicity director, Dr. Richard Hammer of Lincoln, the meet coordinator, and Ralph King, regional coordinator of Chevrolet, which co-sponsors the event.

Many, many Lincoln people are involved in the organization and promotion of the Junior Olympics and they're putting in many long hours working out details of the four-day event.

King, Connors Score Wins

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Billie Jean King, five times the Queen of Wimbledon, and Jimmy Connors, a young man on the threshold of tennis greatness, Tuesday returned to tournament play and scored comfortable victories in their opening matches at the All-England championships.

King and Connors have carried the challenge of Philadelphia and Baltimore, respectively, in the World Team Tennis league back in the United States where no singles players actually completes a full match. Critics maintained this would hurt their form in a tournament as demanding as the 12-day Wimbledon classic, but neither appeared out of condition.

In keeping with tradition, Mrs. King opened the second day proceedings on center court, an honor reserved for the defending title holders, and she made a 33-minute appearance in routing Kathy May of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1, in a second round match.

Connors, the third seed from Belleville, Ill., completed a 6-1, 7-9, 6-2, 6-4 victory over bearded Swede Ove Bengtson in a match carried over from Monday which had been halted because of failing light.

Chris Evert, winner of the recent Italian and French Open and seeded to meet King in the finals, was idle, as were other girls in the draw of 96 who gained first round byes.

A crowd in excess of 26,000 was on the grounds of the ivy-walled club on a dull, overcast day. Hundreds of uniformed schoolgirls brought comments of "disgraceful" from members, sporting gray suits and the green-and-mauve club tie, following chants of "We want (Bjorn) Borg...we want Borg."

The screaming girls made passage between the 12 outside courts almost impossible, while things came to a standstill in the area in front of the players' restaurant where the 18-year-old Swedish sensation, who won in Italy and France, took refuge. He was not scheduled for singles Tuesday.

The behavior of the girls is the thing most encouraged by World Team Tennis and fourthseeded Rosie Casals of San Francisco, a 6-2, 6-1, winner over Britain's Penny Moore, said it was strange to hear the umpire call for "silence" during games.

Rosie said WTT players like King, Connors and herself practice hard and they are quite capable of standing up to the rigors of a tough tournament. Billie Jean certainly showed no ill effects from her involvement in WTT—she is one of the leaders of the league—as she produced all the strokes: drop shots, sliced second service, the top spun lob and devastating serving and volleying.

Connors, winner of the Australian Open but denied a chance for the Grand Slam of major championships when refused entry into the French Open because of his involvement with WTT, had little trouble finishing off Bengtson.

The towering Swede, who doublefaulted repeatedly on Monday, continued where he left off and with the score tied at 2-all and 30-all in the fourth set, he again faulted to give Connors the break he needed.

Connors, 21, said, "I'm glad to be playing again after being kept out of the Italian and French Opens. It's always tough at Wimbledon, especially the first match, and I'm glad it's out of the way."

With the seedings committee batting 1000—all the seeds successfully cleared the first hurdle—the play was of a routine nature, but Ken Rosewall, the Cinderella man from Down Under, rolled back the clock a few years in defeating Vijay Amritraj, the young Indian who beat Rod Laver at Forest Hills last year, in a thrilling four-setter, 6-2, 5-7, 9-8, 6-1, to move into the third round.

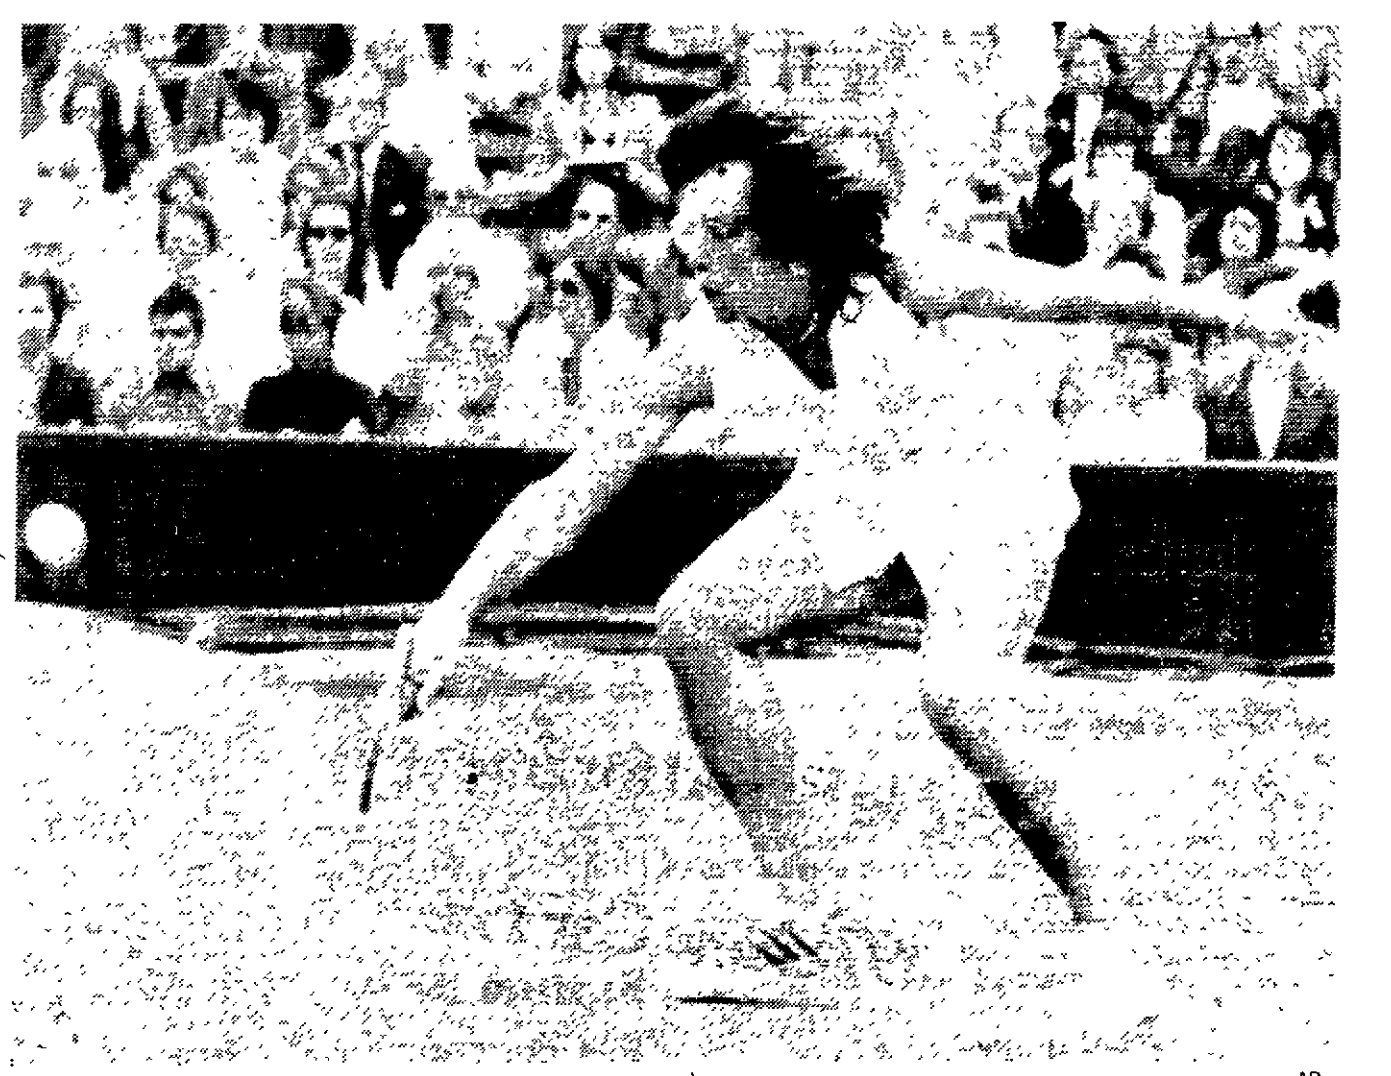

Although Rosewall's service looked weak, he used his vintage backhand to devastating effect and employed the drop shot with great success.

The ninth-seeded Rosewall, at 39 still trying for the one title that has eluded him, said "I'm feeling fine, but I'll have to serve better. Vijay didn't push me on service the way some of the others will. But as long as the weather remains cool, I'll be fine."

The men's first round was cleared up and eighth-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla. joined Connors in the second round with a routine 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 win over Hans Kary of Austria.

Alex Metreveli, the 10th seed from Tbilisi, Georgia, ("I'm from Georgia, not Russia") briefly lost his concentration in the third set but recovered to defeat Briton John Feaver, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

On the distaff side, other seeds to advance without trouble were third choice Evonne Goolagong of Australia, the 1971 champion, 6-1, 6-1 over Mariejka Schaar of the Netherlands, and fifth seeded Virginia Wade who blanked her British Wimbledon Cup teammate, Veronica Burton, 6-0, 6-0.

Billie Jean King, bidding for her sixth straight Wimbledon singles title, backhands the ball in the process of beating Kathy May of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1 in an opening round match.

Ahhhhh!!!! Kick, Punch, Belt . . . Both Pass Tests

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Remember all those "Kung Fu" movies where the hero leaps high in the air and with a loud "kiiiiiaaaaaaalllllll" quickly decimates 10 or more foes?

That's Hollywood. In reality, Roger Terrell, head instructor for the Lincoln branch of the Omaha Karate and Judo School, pointed out that anyone idiot enough to leave safe terra firma for the unknown stability of the stratosphere would probably be killed or at least severely maimed by an accomplished fighter.

That level of competency, however, is extremely difficult to reach. It involves years and years of training and tests. Tests that scare the hell out of the beginning student.

And that's precisely what brought yours truly, upon the insistence of son, Randy Roger, here a few short days ago: our first martial arts test, more exactly, Tae Kwon-Do.

Literally translated, Tae Kwon-Do means "The Way of the Hand and the Foot." But that way ain't necessarily the way certain hands and feet were meant by the good Lord to go. Still, according to the stringent forms and requirements of the school, that's the way they did go.

Nervously attired in our sparkling white uniforms, the boy and yours truly mingled with 75 other hopefuls on the mat, stretching, talking, practicing last final adjustments to the Chun Jee (beginning) form made by Terrell the day before.

"Remember," he emphasized. "DON'T be nervous. You'll be back in the shower before you know it." Fat chance. That shower was a million miles away and barricaded by the judges' table filled to capacity by 20 inscrutable individuals, Terrell and Craig Kollars, our instructors, among them and headed by the top man himself, Huang Lee, who, in taciturn manner, explained the test.

The test began when Dale Craig, a black belt instructor with a stare that would have turned Medusa to stone, demanded everybody line up and go through several contortions designed to loosen the muscles and prevent anyone from becoming injured (by themselves).

This didn't work very well as the floor was fairly small and we were very many. Several minutes later, having collected an elbow in the eye, stamped feet, a foot in the small of the back, we were allowed to sit down and four hopefuls were called out onto the floor by Dick Reed, owner of the school and resplendent in a vanilla-white ice cream suit.

Facing that battery of stoics with faces Gabriel's horn couldn't crumble was almost too much for several. Some failed their first time around and had to re-take the exam. Some failed and failed and were politely asked to leave the mat, head steadied on their bare toes to avoid possible eye-to-eye contact with their peers.

The first part of the test went smoothly. It was over before you knew it. But then came something called "one-step sparring" where your opponent would try his level best to drill his fist through your solar plexus with a single punch. You, on the other hand, were allowed to hit him 14 million times or as many as you feasibly could fit into a sequential pattern and as long as you really didn't hit him but came as close as you could.

That was a little hairy with a few hopefuls, frantically trying to impress the judges, battering their opponents with kicks and punches.

At last, it was over. The final punch thrown and the final kick blasted within a scant half-inch of a faceless opponent's ribs. Then a week wait until the final results were tabulated and forwarded to your school.

The result? Both son and self advanced. But now things are harder yet. And the muscle-strain more. If only the kid hadn't seen those damn "Kung-Fu" movies.

Back Nine Prosperity Boosts Teague Into Lead

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Nancy Teague found the back nine at Pioneers Park to her liking Tuesday and as a result leads the Lincoln City Women's Golf Tournament.

Nancy, a lefthander, shot a one-under-par 36 on the back nine to go with her front nine of 42 for a 78 and one-stroke lead over defending champion Jean Hyland.

Jean had a two-stroke advantage after the first nine holes by shooting a three-over-par 40, but lost three strokes on the back nine with a 39.

Betty Abel is third with a 44-42—96, while Pam Edwards is fourth with 45-45—90.

Play will continue Wednesday at Holmes Park, Nancy's home course and will conclude Thursday at Lincoln Country Club, Jean's home course.

Nancy only had trouble with one hole Tuesday and that came on No. 7 where she hit the ball into a bush. She was forced to take a penalty shot.

Jean, meanwhile, played about consistent golf on every hole.

"I'm very happy with my score," she said. "I was just hoping to break 80."

"I was hitting the ball well and had some nice putts go in, while some others I wanted to make not go in."

This is the second year Nancy has entered the tournament as she finished in a tie for sixth last year and her best round was a 92 on the final day.

"This was one of my best nine," she said of her 36 on the back nine holes. "I knew the back nine were a little easier for me and I was hoping I could play better than I did on the front nine."

Dorothy is at the National Mayors' Conference with her husband, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and isn't entered this year.

Bed A Bundle Captures Stakes

Omaha — Felix Beda's Bed A Bundle rallied from off the pace to score a neck victory in Tuesday's first running of the Coronation Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben.

D. Clark and A. G. Smyre's Vickers Gigg led into the stretch but a determined bid by Bed A Bundle and her jockey Dan W. Whitte proved best at the end of the mile and 70-yard race that attracted nine 3 and 4-year-old fillies.

Paul Kemling's Patsy's Reign turned back Wayne Davidson's Wind 'n Sage by 2 1/2-lengths for the place spot before 12,397 fans. The owners of the first three horses will get a free breeding of any mare they choose to either Black Mountain, Vanceburg or Foreign Comet. The second-place owner will get second choice of the stallion and the third-place owner will receive last preference.

The victory was the first this season after nine winless outings for Bed A Bundle. As a 6-1 outsider, she returned $15.20, $5.90 and $3.40.

Patsy's Reign, who has been in one of the top three positions in 9 of her 10 runs this year, returned $3.40 and $2.80. Wind 'n Sage showed for $2.80.

Bed A Bundle earned $11,687.50 of the total purse of $21,250. That hiked her 1974 winnings to $16,068.50 on one triumph, three seconds and one third.

Jockey Leroy Moyers rode both halves of the daily double. He scored first with the Circle Y Stable's Hannibob ($5.20) and then talked aboard the Shinnore Farms Inc.'s Harkville ($5.40). The 6-7 double returned a paltry $16.40. That was the smallest official double this year. A consolation double this year returned a meager $9.40.

Destroyer Ready?

Omaha (UPI) — Trainer Monti Sims Tuesday pronounced destroyer "fit and ready" for Saturday's $75,000-added Omaha Gold Cup at Ak-Sar-Ben.

With his regular rider, Milo Valenzuela, in the saddle Destroyer worked a sharp six furlongs in 1:12 3/5 and galloped out seven furlongs in 1.26. His fractions were :24 for the quarter and :48 2/5 for the half.

Sims called the workout a "sharp move" and indicated his three-year-old star is ready to take on all comers.

"We just hope it stays dry the rest of the week," he said.

Three other probable starters in the Gold Cup have scheduled Thursday morning workouts.

Trainer Joe Di Angelo is expected to fly in from New York Wednesday night to supervise the workout of E. R. Scharp's Sharp Gary. The Diamond Stable's Port of the Sea and Ken Simon's Ogan also will be on the track Thursday morning.

Trainer Jack Van Berg indicated he is planning on sending out three from his list of nominations which include Anticipation, Calification, Mr. Tomahawk, Operating, Ram-bunctious Road and Stop Talking.

Kelly Placed On Waivers

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Veteran running back Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns has been placed on waivers and several other National Football League clubs have expressed interest in acquiring the fleet-footed professional, it was learned Tuesday.

Bob Nussbaumer, the team's vice president-player personnel, expressed optimism that Kelly and the Browns would both benefit from a trade since Kelly has decided against retiring as an active player.

"Leroy is going through the transition period of being placed on waivers," Nussbaumer said. "There has been considerable interest shown in him."

"I also talked to several other clubs and we're trying to work out something beneficial to both Leroy and the team. He is aware that we planned to utilize young backs and rookies this coming season and he understands this."

Kelly, 34, has played with the Browns since he was drafted eighth in 1964.

Forgers Will Never Fool Verisign

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Forgers often pride themselves on being masters of psychology. In England, a new computer system that can't be "psyched out" will make it tougher for handwriting artists, as Marvin Petal, chief of the London Bureau of McGraw-Hill World News, relates.)

By MARVIN PETAL
London — A perfect copy of a signature might fool the layman all of the time, some security guards and bank tellers too much of the time, and handwriting experts some of the time. But it will never fool "Verisign."

Verisign is a new electronic signature verification system developed by Britain's National Physical Laboratory (NPL), and it could be on the market as early as next year.

Dr. John Parks, the NPL electronics engineer in charge of the project, figures Verisign can be applied to any number of situations in which personal identification has to be determined. While banking interests sponsored the NPL research, other potential users also are thinking about Verisign installations to control access to premises. Hospitals, which want to protect the confidentiality of medical records, are interested. So are chemical plants who would rather not have fumblefingered visitors messing around with hazardous materials. Governmental agencies say they could use Verisign to stop welfare crooks from impersonating folks with legitimate claims to welfare checks.

The reason Verisign isn't fooled by forgeries, no matter of what artistic merit, is that the system scrutinizes not only the way the signature looks, but also the way in which the hand moves while writing.

At the outset a person enters five specimen signatures onto a device called a "datapad." The

Rise Noted In Middleman Food Profits

Washington (UPI) — Another increase in middlemen's margins pushed the annual retail cost of a typical food market basket up to $1,733 in May — an increase of 0.3% or $5 from the April rate, an Agriculture Department report showed.

The report underlined administration pleas to food industry leaders to hold down consumer grocery bills by shaving the widening gap between the shrinking prices of raw farm products and the near-record retail prices consumers are paying.

Meanwhile, Don Paarlberg, director of the department's economics section, told Congress that the margin between what the farmer receives and the consumer pays will continue to increase "substantially" for the remainder of the year.

Paarlberg said that the farm-retail price spread would "continue the upward push" as a result of rising wages, energy and material costs and transportation charges.

datapad resembles one of those metal boxes used for writing invoices. But immediately under the writing paper are two conducting surfaces, just out of contact with each other. As the pen or pencil bears down on the paper, the pressure-sensitive surfaces come into contact with each other and transmit signals to a computer.

The computer takes an instant analysis of the five specimen signatures, extracting features in terms of 10 variables. Dr. Parks won't say what all these variables are, but he does mention several that could be measured, such as the number of times and places where the pencil is touched to paper, the pauses between strokes, the total time of writing the signature.

Five specimen signatures are required in the beginning because, as Verisign very well knows, nobody writes his own name exactly the same way twice. The five samples give an adequate average. So Verisign establishes the standard for each variable and permits a reasonable deviation for each of them. At that point, Verisign knows not only what your signature looks like, but it knows just how you wrote it.

The next time you try to enter the security area you merely sign your name once on the datapad. The signals are transmitted to the computer which instantly shuffles through its memory and verifies that you are who you say you are. This information is displayed on a television screen which should be visible to the security guard, but not to you.

In normal operation the decision flashed on the screen would say something like, "signature okay." Sometimes the machine seems a little hesitant and the prototype is programmed for such occasions to say, "doubtful, try again." But if you happen to be a spy, Verisign will silently tell the guard, "suspected forger, call for help."

Dr. Parks says Verisign could be programmed to simultaneously flash the message to the police, take a photograph, or, yes, even spring a trap door.

Of course, there are other methods of verifying identity. But Dr. Parks figures that signature verification has advantages in being simple, natural, and entirely personal. Sure, people can gain access to premises with keys and magnetic cards, but these can be stolen. Nobody can steal the way a person writes his name.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
Vitamins should be taken only when prescribed by a physician. The Nebraska Medical Association reports that all of the nutrients that man requires are found in ordinary, everyday foods — readily available in all parts of the country the year around.

Normally dietary supplements of vitamins and minerals are not necessary when your diet is properly varied. In certain instances, healthy persons with adequate diets may require supplementary vitamins during special periods, such as pregnancy. The kind and amount of vitamins should be decided by a physician as it should be remembered that some vitamins are actually harmful if taken in excessive amounts.

Blum's Of San Francisco Moves To Lincoln Offices

Clive Hilgert, president of Blum's of San Francisco, announced Tuesday that the firm's general offices and headquarters have been moved to 111 N. 56th in Lincoln.

The candy company has distribution centers in San Francisco and Harrisburg, Pa., and a production plant in Jackson, Minn.

Hilgert, a native of Lincoln and president and founder of Cotner Investment Corp., acquired Blum's in 1971. Other Cotner investment holdings include the Villager Motel, Plaza Bowl Building and Cotner Medical Building.

Hilgert said he decided to move the Blum's offices from San Francisco to Lincoln in order to "consolidate operations." The local headquarters will employ about 25 persons, he said.

Other officers of Blum's include Hilgert's two sons, Bernard and Don, both of Lincoln, vice presidents; Norman Sandager, vice president in charge of sales, and Charles Taylor, controller.

Blum's features a complete line of candies, Hilgert said, from creams and mints to hard candies. In the United States, more than 1,000 stores sell Blum's candies. They are also sold in Japan, Singapore, Australia, Hong Kong and the Fiji Islands, he added.

In the past three years sales have increased 10-fold, he said. They now total more than $3 million annually.

Hilgert also outlined tentative plans to build a new production plant in 1977, probably in the southeast Nebraska area. The new plant would include about 50,000 sq. ft. and employ an estimated 60 persons.

Blum's candies are now available at the Villager Motel and will soon be in other retail outlets in Lincoln.

Within the next 60 days, the Villager's coffee shop will be remodeled in the classic Blum's decor and will feature those confections served in San Francisco the past 84 years.

Hilgert also introduced three Japanese businessmen, Tohru Yamauchi, vice president of the Izumiya Confectionery firm in Tokyo, Japan, and Howard Hiroki and Mitsutake Kojima of the same firm.

Izumiya is the exclusive distributor of Blum's candies in Japan. The three executives were in Lincoln Tuesday to renew that contract.

Stock Market Pulls Out Of Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled out of its recent slide with a substantial technical rally Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 12 1/2 points to 828.85, and the more broadly based New York Stock Exchange composite rose .63 to 46.55.

Advances outnumbered declines for the first time since June 10 on the NYSE, with the final margin reading 876 to 475 among the 1,760 issues traded on the big exchange.

Brokers said the inspiration for the upswing came almost entirely from internal factors within the market, rather than any encouraging news.

They noted that the stage had been set for a rebound when the market finished mixed Monday, struggling off the negative effects of a series of increases in several banks' prime lending rates.

Jack L. Solomon at Thomson McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeier, observing that some of the strongest gains turned up in glamour issues, said he believed the rally drew some added impetus from portfolio shuffling by institutional investors preparing for quarterly reports.

Solomon said the rebound "probably cannot be sustained without some easing in interest rates."

Among growth favorites, IBM added 5 1/2 to 221 1/2 on news of a dividend increase, Burroughs climbed 3 1/2 to 106 1/2, Walt Disney Productions picked up 1 1/2 to 46, and Texas Instruments rose 2 1/2 to 96.

Oil service, steel and chemical issues also were strong. Teledyne, the Big Board's most-active stock, faded 1/2 to 12 1/2 in trading marked by a 247,000-share block at that price.

Emerson Electric, second on the active list, slipped 1/2 to 37 1/2. A 147,800-share block crossed the tape at 38.

Laborte Steel advanced a point to 9 1/2. The company forecast an earnings gain for the second quarter and said a bid by Eastmet Corp. to acquire a controlling interest in Laborte was unsuccessful so far.

After the close, a Philadelphia appeals court upheld an order that Laborte turn over its list of stockholders to Eastmet, however.

HCA-Martin, which said it was considering buying a block of shares from its president, rose 2 1/2 to 15 1/2.

Northwestern Steel & Wire was up 3 1/2 to 39. The company raised its dividend and declared an extra payout.

Grand Union, which authorized the purchase of up to 904,400 of its own shares, was a 1/2-point gainer at 10 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, Syntex was the volume leader, up 1 1/2 to 45 1/2.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite closed at 79.35, up .47.

Committee Is To Release Evidence On Impeachment

•The New York Times

Washington — The House Judiciary Committee decided Tuesday, despite bitter and bipartisan dissent, to make public as soon as possible virtually all of the evidence assembled for the investigation of President Nixon's conduct in office.

By a vote of 22 to 16, the committee agreed to publish — perhaps beginning next week — most of the 7,000 pages of evidence presented in 18 days of closed hearings on possible impeachment of the President, except highly classified documents related to the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, who sponsored the proposal to release the evidence, said that a committee majority had agreed with his contention that "the public has a right to know" the basis on which the President's conduct would be judged.

The committee specifically excluded from publication, however, highly classified testimony related to the secret bombing of Cambodia, and gave to its two senior members the discretion to delete other, unspecified material before publication. They are Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., the chairman, and Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich.

The White House had urged release of the evidence. But Republicans and Democrats who tried in vain to prevent the disclosure described the decision as a travesty of justice for both Nixon and defendants in forthcoming criminal trials related to the Watergate case.

"History will show this was not a very tidy process, with due process not afforded the President and defendants in public trials," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., told reporters after the vote at a closed meeting.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., called the decision "a grievous mistake which historically is going to indict our committee."

Rodino hailed the decision. He said that all of the evidence had been part of an "objective" presentation by the impeachment inquiry staff and that it was "in the public interest that it be in the hands of the public" before the committee begins debate on whether to recommend that Nixon be impeached.

Rodino told reporters after the decision was made, at a closed-door meeting, that he could not predict just when the evidence would be published. He said that it would depend on how soon it could be reproduced by the Government Printing Office and that it might be published in segments.

Nuclear Veto Bill Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate House Atomic Energy Committee approved a bill Tuesday to give Congress veto authority over any transfer of U.S. nuclear technology to a foreign country.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana promised quick Senate action on the measure, which won unanimous approval of the joint committee.

The bill would be retroactive to June 1 and thus would cover

President Nixon's offer of nuclear aid to Egypt and Israel. The measure would give Congress 60 days to consider such an agreement. If both houses failed to veto the proposal within that time, it would take effect.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., vice chairman of the committee, said the intent of his bill is to ensure that Congress has a voice in any agreement exporting nuclear technology.

The bill would exempt from congressional oversight small nuclear power devices, specifically those that generate heat of less than five million watts.

In the House, Congress' first formal inquiry into the Midwest nuclear aid was told that the United States will insist on veto power over handling of nuclear fuels to prevent their highjacking by terrorists or diversion to nuclear weapons development.

Dr. Abraham S. Friedman, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of International Programs, said he believes both Egypt and Israel will be willing to accept such stringent safeguards.

Friedman testified at a hearing conducted by two House foreign affairs subcommittees on the President's nuclear aid commitments.

While refusing to answer a question on whether the United States will insist that all nuclear fuels be reprocessed and stored outside of Egypt or Israel to prevent their use for nuclear weapons, Friedman said "we will consider as a major negotiating point that we will have a veto over where these byproducts are reprocessed, where they are stored and how they are transported from place to place."

He also said the United States "will require a physical security program which will prevent takeover by terrorists groups."

Blood Clot Risk High For Women Using Pill

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Johns Hopkins team of researchers says that although the amount of estrogen in the average birth control pill has been cut in half since the contraceptive came on the market, the risk of blood clots is just as great.

The researchers said a woman taking the average pill runs a six-fold greater risk of blood clots than a woman who doesn't. That's about the same risk she would have run with the old, stronger pill.

Dr. Melvin Tockman, in a paper prepared for delivery Tuesday at the American Medical Association convention in Chicago, said a perfectly safe pill apparently would be too weak to work as advertised.

He and three other scientists at the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health studied 461 pill-taking women and compared them with about 1,300 women who did not use the pill. They found the risk of blood clots to be six times greater for the women taking the pill.

The epidemiologist said the estrogen level in the average prescription was 150 micrograms when the pill first hit the market. When the increased risk of blood clotting was detected, he said, the dosage was reduced to an average of 100 micrograms and, eventually, to about 50 micrograms.

Tockman said studies elsewhere indicate that the pill at the 50 microgram level is about as weak as it can be without losing some effectiveness.

Calley Appeal Considered

Columbus, Ga. (AP) — A federal judge took William L. Calley Jr.'s appeal of his My Lai murder conviction under advisement Tuesday after rejecting a new request that he free Calley on bail.

Earlier in the day, the former Army lieutenant's attorneys argued that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who was in charge of American troops in Vietnam in 1968, influenced the murder case against Calley while publicly denying his own responsibility.

The 31-year-old Calley, who is serving a 10-year sentence for the 1968 murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at MY Lai, has been confined to the Ft. Benning stockade since last week when the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans lifted his bail privilege.

Calley's attorneys filed a motion for bail Tuesday at the end of a two-day appeal hearing before U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott.

The Supreme Court refused earlier in the day to overturn a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision revoking the freedom on bail which Elliott granted Calley in February.

Soviets Launch 3rd Space Station

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union lofted a Salyut space station into Earth orbit Tuesday, setting the stage for a possible manned flight to link up with it during the visits of President Nixon and nine U.S. astronauts.

The Soviets maintained complete secrecy about their intentions, not even informing the astronauts who are here for a joint training mission that the Salyut had been launched.

The Tass news agency and Moscow radio announced the Salyut launch. Officially, it is the third attempt by the Soviets in four years to carry out a program similar to the highly successful U.S. Skylab project.

The Skylab program was climaxed last winter when three U.S. astronauts in an Apollo spacecraft docked with a Skylab station and spent a record 84 days in orbit.

The Soviets have been far less successful with their own space lab efforts.

Three cosmonauts docked with the first Salyut in 1971 but died on their return to Earth due to loss of pressure in their descent vehicle.

Salyut-2 was orbited in April, 1973, but four solar panels were torn loose in an unexplained accident and the craft eventually disintegrated in space without any attempt made to send up a manned spacecraft to join it. Western sources said the Soviets might launch a manned Soyuz spacecraft to dock with the Salyut during President Nixon's weeklong visit starting Thursday.

Nixon is scheduled Saturday to visit Star City, the cosmonaut training center 20 miles from Moscow where the nine U.S. astronauts are training with the Soviets for a joint flight in mid-1975.

The astronauts knew nothing of the Salyut launch until an American newsmen telephoned them, according to Jack Reilly, the astronaut spokesman.

He declined to comment on the Soviet launch.

The last manned Soviet flight was in December, 1973. Cosmonauts Pyotr Klimuk and Valentin Lebedev spent eight days in orbit aboard Soyuz-13 and returned safely to Earth.

Chevy Name Alters

Detroit (AP) — General Motors is changing the name of its new Chevrolet subcompact from the "Chaparral" to the "Monza" because of a dispute involving royalty payments, industry sources say.

Lincoln church news is carried on a special page in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

IBJ Award Given

Washington (UPI) — Bayard Rustin, veteran civil rights leader and organizer of the 1963 march on Washington, has been chosen winner of the Urban Coalition's Lyndon Baines Johnson Award.

Discharge Permits Approved

The State Department of Environmental Control (DEC) has tentatively approved waste water discharge permits for 25 communities, one industry and one state wide area.

When finalized the permits will require the discharges to be in compliance with state and federal water quality standards by June 30, 1977. In the meantime, the permit sets out a construction schedule, calling for annual progress reports and the awarding of construction contracts by June 30, 1976.

The communities are: Clay Center, Syracuse, Utica, Osceola, Hickman, Ceresco, Howells, Johnson, Nemaha, Pleasanton, Maywood, Elba, Palmyra, Panama, Beaver Crossing, Ashton, Rising City, Snyder, Weston, Ong, Shelton, Sutton, Fairmont, Alma and Stella.

Permits have also been tentatively approved for Mormon Island State Wayside Area and Blue Acres Inc. - Wilber Freight Inc. of Crete.

Comments on the proposed permits for discharges should be sent to the DEC in Lincoln by July 27.

Foreign Market Study Funding OK'd

Denver (UPI) — Five state governors Tuesday approved the spending of $425,000 for a study by the Old West Commission of foreign markets for domestically-manufactured products.

"It would be a broad program consisting of studies of each state's capacity in the international trade area," a commission spokesman said.

by Govs. James J. Exon of Nebraska, Richard Kneip of South Dakota, Stan Hathaway of Wyoming, Arthur Link of North Dakota and Thomas Judge of Montana.

The commission also approved formation of committees to study agriculture, natural resources, labor markets and transportation capabilities in each state.

The spokesman said that the study of foreign markets would include possible locations for trade missions and their value. He said the foreign markets studied would be in Asia and Europe.

"Of course Japan will be one of the (markets) because Montana already does quite a business in Japan," he said. "But it also would include Europe."
